Battered Body of Unknown Man Found at Morris

RECOVERED FROM RIVER SOUTH OF TOWN

INVESTIGATORS SAY MAN CAME TO HIS DEATH AFTER TER-RIFIC STRUGGLE

POSSIBILITY EXISTS HE MAY HAVE BEEN SLAIN BY GANGSTERS

Morris, Minn., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Coroner J. A. Ringness today investigated the death of an unidentified man whose battered body was recovered from the Pommedetere river ten miles south of here.

The man came to his death after a terrific struggle, investigators said. They believed he had been killed some time Sunday or early Monday although his body was not recovered until last night.

Possibility that the man had been killed by gangster rivals will be investigated, the coroner's office said.

The dead man's skull was fractured and three deep cuts were inflicted by a sharp instrument. His face was badly battered and the ground near the point in the river where the body was found was smeared with blood.

After pounding his victim into unconsciousness or death, the unknown attacker threw the body into the Pommedetere river.

No marks of identification could be found in the man's clothing and it could not be established whether they had been removed intentionally or had not been in the man's clothing prior to the fight.

The man, who was about 30 years old, wore corduroy breeches and a woolen shirt. One boot and a sock were missing. He weighed about 155 pounds.

Local residents recalled seeing two men apparently farm workers Sunday who said they had come from Grand Forks where they had been employed on a potato patch. They were driving an old car. Police were checking to see if the killing might have resulted so that the killer would have sole ownership of the battered automobile.

The body was found by a boy who saw the man's feet sticking out of the river. He noticed them Monday morning but thought nothing of it until he passed by again in the afternoon. Then he spread the alarm and the body was recovered.

UNRECOGNIZABLE BODY OF WOMAN IS FOUND

Milwaukee, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Pathologists, working over the unrecognizable body of a woman who had been dead many weeks, believed today they were nearing a solution of the mysterious disappearance about July 4 of Mrs. Cora Bell Hackett, 42, Chicago.

The body, found near the Lac De Flambeau Indian reservation in northern Wisconsin, was so decomposed it could not be identified immediately, but Mrs. Hackett's dentist was to be brought here from Chicago and authorities felt certain he could make the identification, the only thing they said they lacked to charge her husband with murder.

Mrs. Hackett, widow of a member of the state President Roosevelt's personal secret service staff, was married in Chicago on June 16 to George W. E. Perry, whom she had met through a newspaper advertisement.

Perry, authorities say, is a bigamist, having been married to Katherine Gebhart of Cleveland a few months before he was married to Mrs. Hackett.

The advertisement which led to the marriage was one which appeared in Chicago and asked for a woman companion to make an auto trip to California with all expenses paid. Mrs. Hackett answered it, expecting to meet a woman. Instead she met Perry, who told her he had much property in California and that he wished to be married because his mother objected that he was a spendthrift and wanted him to settle down. They were married soon after and left for northern Wisconsin on their honeymoon. Friends of Mrs. Hackett say she gave him $500 to pay expenses.

The last heard of Mrs. Hackett was July 5, when friends of hers in Chicago received postcards postmarked Lac Du Flambeau and dated July 2.

Perry, authorities said, returned to Cleveland on July 7, driving a tan colored automobile similar to that owned by Mrs. Hackett. His first wife told authorities that in the car she found numerous articles of women's clothing and that her husband told her they had belonged to an aunt of his in Chicago who did not want them any more. Mrs. Perry said several of the articles bore the initials "C. B. H."

Suspicion that the unidentified body found near the Indian reservation was that of Mrs. Hackett was aroused when Chicago police, who had been informed of the discovery, learned from Mrs. Hackett's sister, Miss Peggy L. Young, New York, that the woman was missing.

Perry's whereabouts were unknown to police.

TAX LEVY UP 3-4 MILLS, CITY BUDGET, $78,093.58

CLEVELAND SEEKS TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF UNEMPLOYMENT

Cleveland, O., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—A $200,000 bond ordinance for unemployment relief has been voted by the Cleveland city council. From 400 to 500 men will be given work on municipal improvements next week. Officials hope within a few weeks to provide part time jobs for more than 1,000.

The work will be done in city parks and will include laying sidewalks, constructing curbs, grading and landscaping. Little of the money will be spent on materials.

Married men with families who have resided here more than a year will be given preference, Park Director Samuel Newman stated.

FLOODS AND CYCLONES DO DAMAGE IN TEXAS

WIDELY SEPARATED AREAS OF THE STATE ARE AF- FECTED

TOWNS AND FARMS ARE HAR- RASSED FOR FORTY-EIGHT HOURS

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Damaged communication lines brought slowly today details of suffering and disaster in widely separated sections of Texas where torrential floods and cyclonic winds had harassed towns and farms for 48 hours.

Four persons were known to have been killed in floods which followed hours of rain in west central and south central parts of the state. Others were missing and were believed to have been drowned in the swirling waters of swollen rivers and streams. Eighteen persons were in improvised hospitals in a little farming community near Latexo, in east Texas, where a tornado demolished five farm homes. One of the injured, Will Morris, was not expected to live.

The flooded areas of central Texas bore the brunt of the weather's fury. Thousands of acres of farming land were inundated. Hundreds of persons were made homeless in the valleys of the Guadalupe, Colorado and Nueces rivers.

Brady, a town of 4,000, was flooded by several feet of water overflowing from Brady creek. Four persons were drowned.

SAYS LIQUOR RAIDS HAVE CAUSED HEAVY LOSSES IN VOTES

St. Paul, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—The St. Paul Daily News today said that "wholesale raids on liquor law violators in Stearns, Benton and Morrison counties by federal agents last Friday and Saturday had cost Senator Schall additional votes because of the alleged activities of Mr. Baumgarten in collecting money from bootleggers in those counties, ostensibly for Senator Schall's campaign fund."

MORIARTY WAIVES EXAMINATION TODAY

Anoka, Minn., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Dan Moriarty, accused of owning gambling equipment at the Oak Grove Country club, waived examination in municipal court today. His case was continued to the district court which meets Oct. 13.

IF CONGRESS AIDS, NINE-FOOT CHANNEL WORK TO PROCEED

Washington, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—The army corps of engineers is prepared to begin work on the nine-foot channel in the upper Mississippi next spring if congress makes the necessary appropriation at its December session, Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of engineers, said here today.

At its last session congress authorized construction of the deeper channel, but made no appropriation for it. Meanwhile, army engineers who still are working on the six-foot channel project, are adapting all locks, dams and other engineering devices to supply the needs of a nine-foot channel, it was explained.

The increase in the amount of taxation is partly due, the finance committee explained, to the cost of the audit of city books conducted by the state recently.

Discuss Milk Question

Dr. J. A. Thabes, Jr., city health officer, appeared before the council last evening and gave a lengthy report on the city's milk supply.

Following the discussion of a survey made by the U. S. Health Service in cooperation with the State Board of Health early this summer, Dr. Thabes recommended that certain changes as suggested by the Health Service be made in the milk ordinance for the city.

On motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritt and W. J. Hall, the chairman was instructed to appoint a committee of three to act with Dr. Thabes and Dr. R. G. Hallquist regarding proposed revisions of the ordinance. Aldermen Frank B. Johnson, W. J. Hall, and Andrew Wesley, were named on the committee.

The report of the milk sanitation status of Brainerd as of June 24, 1929, follows:

No. of retail raw dairies, 26. (Also about 20-1 and 2 cow dairies).

No. of retail raw dairies inspected, 26.

No. of plant producers, 7.

The survey officer offered the following recommendations:

The additional items of sanitation covered in this survey be incorporated in the local ordinance.

GYPSY QUEEN AT COLLEGE PAGEANT LOSES RAIMENT

Aberdeen, S. D., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—The Gypsy day program committee of Northern State Teachers college today ransacked an old storeroom to find the missing royal raiment of the Gypsy queen.

With fall's outstanding celebration a week from Saturday, the committee was dumbfounded to learn that the queen's train and other accessories were missing. A hasty check showed they were returned from the laundry last year and supposedly put away.

Campus tradition says the garments may not be replaced.

KELLEY SAYS THAT RULING BY WORK ASSISTED

"PREPARED WAY" FOR OIL IN- TERESTS TO GAIN VALUABLE PUBLIC LANDS

SLATED BY HIM IN COPYRIGHTED NEWSPAPER STORY TO BE WORTH $20,000,000,000

New York, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Ralph S. Kelley, suspended interior department employee, charged in a copyrighted article in the New York World today that a ruling by Hubert Work, former secretary of Interior, "prepared the way" for oil interests to gain possession of public oil lands "worth upwards of $20,000,000,000."

The ruling was made in the Freeman-Summers case ten months before Work resigned to become campaign manager for President Hoover, Kelley stated, adding that it reversed previous decisions and set a precedent which has been followed since.

Freeman, Kelley charged, was interested in a plot of land in western Colorado which was being worked by Summers, a homesteader. Backed by the Union Oil Company of California, according to Kelley, Freeman made several attempts to have its title declared valid by the interior department, failing each time.

E. C. Finney, first assistant secretary under Work, signed a decision favoring Summers on Dec. 20, 1924, after Freeman had appealed a similar finding by the register of the United States land office at Glenwood Springs, Colo., Kelley set forth, and later Finney denied a rehearing.

Despite these reverses attorneys for the Midwest Refining Company and Prairie Oil and Gas Company persuaded Work to hold a hearing in his office in Washington Dec. 1, 1926, Kelley charged, at which representatives of thirteen oil companies were present. Summers, too poor to hire counsel or even attend, was not present, according to Kelley's story, nor were officials of the Denver field division.

The hearing, which Kelley said was arranged by arrangement of Senator Phipps and the then Senator-elect Waterman of Colorado, resulted in a decision favoring Freeman. Work's ruling, Kelley charged, reversed the sworn testimony taken at the previous hearings and "validated purely imaginary paper oil claims covering an area of 40,000 acres of the Colorado oil field and containing at least twenty million barrels of petroleum."

TO BUILD 21 SCHOOLS AT DETROIT SOON

Detroit, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—The city council today appropriated $4,000,000 with which to build 21 new schools. The construction work will give employment to many men, now out of work, it was said.

The appropriation will be financed by issuing bonds against the Detroit school district. Work on the new schools is to start at once.

Joeboy Expresses Sorrow, Happiness Anent Loss, Return of Black Kitten

Joeboy O'Brien, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George O'Brien, 25 Kingwood street, taught in two moods by James M. Gorham, photographer of Gorham's Ten Thousand Lakes Studio, Front street, as he surveyed a dismal world because his kittens had strayed and then as he appeared about to shout the good news that one kitten had been returned to him.

The little fellow still is waiting for the return of the second black kitten but he feels mighty good to have one back.

Joeboy cried when he lost one of the kittens two weeks ago. But when the second kitten strayed that was just too much. He just couldn't stear the tears. He pleaded with his mother for his kittens. Mother inquired of all the neighbors without success. Then she telephoned the Dispatch office and enlisted the newspaper's aid. One of the kittens was back in the arms of Joeboy Sunday.

The kitten which Joeboy is cuddling is without a name. Names are of no consequence to him but he loves his little playmate more than anything his parents could give him.

The return of the kitten came about through a lady on the north side informing Mrs. O'Brien that two little boys had brought the kitten to her and tried to sell it. Their mothers, reading of Joeboy's plight, told the boys to return the kitten.

WIFE OF MAYOR OF CHICAGO IS ROBBED OF JEWELS

MRS. WM. HALE THOMPSON IN HYSTERICAL CONDITION TODAY

BANDITS SLUGGED POLICEMAN CHAUFFEUR, TAKING HIS STAR AND GUN

Chicago, Oct. 6.—(U.P.)—Mrs. William Hale Thompson, wife of Chicago's mayor, was in a hysterical condition today after three bandits held her up, slugged her policeman chauffeur and escaped with valuable jewelry.

Mrs. Thompson, forced from her automobile in front of her home after attending a theater, fainted as the bandits, who had threatened to kill Policeman Peter J. O'Malley, her chauffeur, drove away with O'Malley in pursuit.

She was carried into her apartment and Dr. Arnold Kegal, city health commissioner, called. Kegal said the mayor's wife was hysterical and allowed no one to see her. She has been in poor health several months.

The bandits took from Mrs. Thompson a six carat diamond ring, said to be worth $8,000, a diamond studded bracelet valued at about $4,000, and a brooch, containing 140 small stones, which had an approximate value of $6,000. They also took O'Malley's star and his gun.

3 OF TRAIN CREW INJURED IN WRECK

Port Jervis, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—A fast Erie railroad express train en route to western points from Jersey City, N. J., was derailed in the Black Rock cut, about four miles from here, today. Three members of the train crew were injured.

FUNERAL TRAIN BEARS BODIES OF R-101 CRASH

CITIZENS IN TOWNS AND VIL- LAGES PAY MUTE HONORS TO CORTEGE

POSSIBLE THAT ALL 47 VICTIMS WILL BE BURIED IN COM- MON GRAVE

Beauvais, France, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—A funeral train started across France today bearing 47 rough coffins, carrying the remains of the men who were killed when the British dirigible R-101, world's largest airship, crashed and exploded near here early Sunday.

Citizens in towns and villages paid mute honor to the dead as the funeral cortege, bearing the bodies of Lord Thomson, British minister of air, and many of Britain's most noted airship experts, passed.

Premier Andrew Tardieu and the French air minister, Laurent Eynac, led the formal procession from town hall, where the bodies were taken from Allonne, to the railroad station.

French airplanes flew overhead, and infantry escorted the procession with muffled drums.

French troops lined the funeral route.

The train of five black vans and two coaches proceeded to Boulogne, where the bodies were to be put on board British warships Tempest and Tribute and taken to England.

The booming of the salute of 101 guns was the only audible signal of sorrow. There were no speeches, no church ceremony.

No coffin was marked with definite identification. It is possible all will be buried in England in a common grave. One, however, was on a separate carriage, indicating that it might be that of the British air minister, Lord Thomson.

Air ministry officials, investigating the cause of the wreck and survivors were unanimous in condemning rumors that discoveries in the wreckage of the dirigible had indicated the presence of a woman aboard the ship. French police found a woman's high heeled slipper, partly burned, in the debris.

Officials believed that it was either on the field before the wreck, or carried in one of the packages aboard the ship.

BUYS HER SPOUSE AN AIRPLANE AND HE FLIES AWAY

Los Angeles, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Naomi Specht Scoff, 400-pound heiress, bought her husband an airplane and he flew away in it, she told Judge J. W. Hanby in winning a divorce today from James T. Scoff, aviator.

Although she possessed a $4,000,000 fortune, her husband found the burden of supporting her was too heavy and for a year failed to contribute to her upkeep, Mrs. Scoff declared.

REVOLUTIONISTS ADVANCE TOWARD RIO DE JANEIRO

THREATENED BLOCKADE OF ITS INLAND FOOD SUPPLY LOOMS

LACK OF COMMUNICATIONS FOR GOVERNMENT TO CONTROL TROOP MOVEMENTS

By WILLIAM POWELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1930, by United Press)

Rio De Janeiro, Oct. 7.—The Brazilian army reserves of the first and second categories were called out today by President Washington Luis.

The reserve forces were summoned for a period of 30 days to combat the revolution started in Rio Grande Do Sul and other states.

At least 1,000 reservists were understood to have presented themselves for service in Rio De Janeiro alone. The official decree summoned men between the ages of 21 and 30 years.

Meanwhile, the government continued its intensive campaign against the insurgent forces. Aviators led the attack, bombing rebel towns in the interior states. The air forces were prepared for a great bombing raid through the revolutionary towns to the northward of the capital.

Federal forces were reported victorious in fighting in Minas Geraes yesterday, driving the rebels from several small towns near the important city of Belo Horizonte, which is in rebel hands. Minas Geraes is a large state just north and west of Rio De Janeiro. A 15-day national holiday, decreed yesterday by the president, became effective this morning, closing all banks and the higher grade schools.

A detachment of Rio De Janeiro state police captured 60 state police of Minas Geraes after a counter attack of Rio Preto. The town was taken by the federal police who captured rebel machine guns.

The food supply continued adequate today but authorities attempted to increase the incoming supplies. Business was normal in the capital despite the declaration of a holiday for 15 days to avoid danger of panic on the exchange and in banks. It was charged that efforts had been made to lower the exchange by dissemination of "alarmist" reports.

By GEORGE D. MAYER (United Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright, 1930, by United Press)

Montevideo, Uruguay, Oct. 7.—Warfare in all its modern strategy was in progress on three fronts in Brazil today.

While a heavy force of revolutionists advanced northward toward Rio De Janeiro, government airplanes, warships and troops were expected momentarily to strike at the two strongest centers of the revolt.

Two new factors, however, entered the picture to create further alarm in the capital. One was a threatened blockade of its inland food supply. The other was lack of communications with which to control its armies over the vast country—an area larger than the United States.

News received from private sources indicated the situation was growing more serious steadily. Brazilian circles appeared worried by the reports that the state of Pernambuco had gone over to the revolution and that Rio De Janeiro had been forced to adopt measures for strict regulation of the food supply.

The alleged defection of Pernambuco constitutes a bad blow to the government. The state is equipped with radio stations which enable the revolutionists to keep in touch with their forces over great distances, while many of the federal government's telegraph lines have been cut by the rebels.

There is a widespread belief that the revolutionists, entrenched in territory on three sides of the government strongholds, have practically isolated Rio De Janeiro, at least from its immediate food sources.

The capital depends on the state of Rio Grande Do Sul for its meat and on the state of Minas Geraes for its milk and vegetables. Each of these territories is in the hands of the insurrectionists, and the government is faced with a severe problem in provisioning its armies and residents of the federal district.

The states of Rio De Janeiro and Sao Paulo, objectives of the revolutionists, are comparatively small ones lying on the southeastern coast of the republic, thousands of miles from the large northern states on whose loyalty they depend.

Rebel leaders claimed today three more states had joined their cause, bringing the total to nine.

The rebels have 40,000 men under arms and are mobilizing others constantly from the reserves for their drive on the capital and Sao Paulo.

To head off this force the government has collected several warships, heavily loaded with troops, off the coast of the state and has dispatched airplane squadrons to bombard Porto Allegre, where the revolutionists are reported to have established their provisional government.

The government commandeered stocks of existing arms and ships. The Sao Paulo authorities requisitioned civil airplanes in the area for use by (Continued on page 8)

GYPSY QUEEN AT COLLEGE PAGEANT LOSES RAIMENT

Aberdeen, S. D., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—The Gypsy day program committee of Northern State Teachers college today ransacked an old storeroom to find the missing royal raiment of the Gypsy queen.

With fall's outstanding celebration a week from Saturday, the committee was dumbfounded to learn that the queen's train and other accessories were missing. A hasty check showed they were returned from the laundry last year and supposedly put away.

Campus tradition says the garments may not be replaced.

KELLEY SAYS THAT RULING BY WORK ASSISTED

"PREPARED WAY" FOR OIL INTERESTS TO GAIN VALUABLE PUBLIC LANDS

SLATED BY HIM IN COPYRIGHTED NEWSPAPER STORY TO BE WORTH $20,000,000.00

New York, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Ralph S. Kelley, suspended interior department employee, charged in a copyrighted article in the New York World today that a ruling by Hubert Work, former secretary of Interior, "prepared the way" for oil interests to gain possession of public oil lands "worth upwards of $20,000,000.00."

The ruling was made in the Freeman-Summers case ten months before Work resigned to become campaign manager for President Hoover, Kelley stated, adding that it reversed previous decisions and set a precedent which has been followed since.

Freeman, Kelley charged, was interested in a plot of land in western Colorado which was being worked by Summers, a homesteader. Backed by the Union Oil Company of California, according to Kelley, Freeman made several attempts to have its title declared valid by the interior department, failing each time.

E. C. Finney, first assistant secretary under Summers on Dec. 20, 1924, after Freeman had appealed a similar finding by the register of the United States land office at Glenwood Springs, Colo., Kelley set forth, and later Finney denied the reversing.

Despite these reverses attorneys for the Midwest Refining Company and Prairie Oil and Gas Company persuaded Work to hold a hearing in his office in Washington Dec. 1, 1926, Kelley charged, at which representatives of thirteen oil companies were present. Summers, too poor to hire counsel or even attend, was not present, according to Kelley's story, nor were officials of the Denver field division.

The hearing, Kelley said, was arranged by arrangement of Senator Phipps and the then Senator-elect Waterman of Colorado, resulted in a decision favoring Freeman. Work's ruling, Kelley charged, reversed the sworn testimony taken at the previous hearings and "validated purely imaginary paper oil claims covering an area of 40,000 acres of the Colorado oil field and containing at least twenty million barrels of petroleum."

TO BUILD 21 SCHOOLS AT DETROIT SOON

Detroit, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—The city council today appropriated $4,000,000 with which to build 21 new schools. The construction work will give employment to many men, now out of work, it was said.

The appropriation will be financed by issuing bonds against the Detroit school district. Work on the new schools is to start at once.

Joeboy Expresses Sorrow, Happiness Anent Loss, Return of Black Kitten

Joeboy O'Brien, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George O'Brien, 25 Kingwood street, caught in two moods by James M. Gorham, photographer of Gorham's Ten Thousand Lakes Studio, Front street, as he surveyed a dismal world because his kittens had strayed and then as he appeared about to shout the good news that one kitten had been returned to him.

The little fellow still is waiting for the return of the second black kitten but he feels mighty good to have one back.

Joeboy cried when he lost one of the kittens two weeks ago. But when the second kitten strayed that was just too much. He just couldn't stem the tears. He pleaded with his mother for his kittens. Mother inquired of all the neighbors without success. Then she telephoned the Dispatch office and enlisted the newspaper's aid. One of the kittens was back in the arms of Joeboy Sunday.

The kitten which Joeboy is cuddling is without a name. Names are in no consequence to him but he loves his little playmate more than anything his parents could give him.

The return of the kitten came about through a lady on the north side informing Mrs. O'Brien that two little boys had brought the kitten to her and tried to sell it. Their mothers, reading of Joeboy's plight, told the boys to return the kitten.

WIFE OF MAYOR OF CHICAGO IS ROBBED OF JEWELS

MRS. WM. HALE THOMPSON IN HYSTERICAL CONDITION TODAY

BANDITS SLUGGED POLICEMAN CHAUFFEUR, TAKING HIS STAR AND GUN

Chicago, Oct. 6.—(U.P.)—Mrs. William Hale Thompson, wife of Chicago's mayor, was in a hysterical condition today after three bandits held her up, slugged her policeman chauffeur and escaped with valuable jewelry.

Mrs. Thompson, forced from her automobile in front of her home after attending a theater, fainted as the bandits, who had threatened to kill Policeman Peter J. O'Malley, her chauffeur, drove away with O'Malley in pursuit.

She was carried into her apartment and Dr. Arnold Kegal, city health commissioner, called. Kegal said the mayor's wife was hysterical and allowed no one to see her. She has been in poor health several months.

The bandits took from Mrs. Thompson a six carat diamond ring, said to be worth $5,000, a diamond studded bracelet valued at about $4,000, and a brooch, containing 140 small stones, which had an approximate value of $6,000. They also took O'Malley's star and his gun.

3 OF TRAIN CREW INJURED IN WRECK

Port Jervis, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—A fast Erie railroad express train en route to western points from Jersey City, N. J., was derailed in the Black Rock cut, about four miles from here today. Three members of the train crew were injured.

FUNERAL TRAIN BEARS BODIES OF R-101 CRASH

CITIZENS IN TOWNS AND VILLAGES PAY MUTE HONORS TO CORTEGE

POSSIBLE THAT ALL 47 VICTIMS WILL BE BURIED IN COMMON GRAVE

Beauvais, France, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—A funeral train started across France today bearing 47 rough coffins, carrying the remains of the men who were killed when the British dirigible R-101, world's largest airship, crashed and exploded near here early Sunday.

Citizens in towns and villages paid mute honor to the dead as the funeral cortege, bearing the bodies of Lord Thomson, British minister of air, and many of Britain's most noted airship experts, passed.

Premier Andrew Tardieu and the French air minister, Laurent Eynac, led the formal procession from town hall, where the bodies were taken from Allonne, to the railroad station.

French airplanes flew overhead, and infantry escorted the procession with muffled drums.

French troops lined the funeral route.

The train of five black vans and two coaches proceeded to Boulogne, where the bodies were to be put on board British warships Tempest and Tribune and taken to England.

The booming of the salute of 101 guns was the only audible signal of sorrow. There were no speeches, no church ceremony.

No coffin was marked with definite identification. It is possible all will be buried in England in a common grave. One, however, was on a separate carriage, indicating that it might be that of the British air minister, Lord Thomson.

Air ministry officials, investigating the cause of the wreck and survivors were unanimous in condemning rumors that discoveries in the wreckage of the dirigible had indicated the presence of a woman aboard the ship. French police found a woman's high heeled slipper, partly burned, in the debris.

Officials believed that it was either on the field before the wreck, or carried in one of the packages aboard the ship.

BUYS HER SPOUSE AN AIRPLANE AND HE FLIES AWAY

Los Angeles, Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Naomi Specht, Scott, 400-pound heiress, bought her husband an airplane and he flew away in it, she told Judge J. W. Hanby in winning a divorce today from James T. Scott, aviator.

Although she possessed a $4,000,000 fortune, her husband found the burden of supporting her was too heavy and for a year failed to contribute to her upkeep, Mrs. Scott declared.

REVOLUTIONISTS ADVANCE TOWARD RIO DE JANEIRO

THREATENED BLOCKADE OF IT INLAND FOOD SUPPLY LOOMS

LACK OF COMMUNICATIONS FOR GOVERNMENT TO CONTROL TROOP MOVEMENTS

By WILLIAM POWELL (United Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright, 1930, by United Press)

Rio De Janeiro, Oct. 7.—The Brazilian army reserves of the first and second categories were called out today by President Washington Luis. The reserve forces were summoned for a period of 30 days to combat the revolution started in Rio Grande do Sul and other states.

At least 1,000 reservists were ordered to have presented themselves for service in Rio De Janeiro alone. The official decree summoned men between the ages of 21 and 30 years.

Meanwhile, the government continued its intensive campaign against the insurgent forces. Aviators led the attack, bombing rebel towns in the interior states. The air forces were prepared for a great bombing raid through the revolutionary towns to the northward of the capital.

Federal forces were reported victorious in fighting in Minas Geraes yesterday, driving the rebels from several small towns near the important city of Belo Horizonte, which is in rebel hands. Minas Geraes is a large state just north and west of Rio De Janeiro. A 15-day national holiday, decreed yesterday by the president, became effective this morning, closing all banks and the higher grade schools.

A detachment of Rio De Janeiro state police captured 60 state police of Minas Geraes after a counter attack of Rio Preto. The town was taken by the federal police who captured rebel machine guns.

The food supply continued adequate today but authorities attempted to increase the incoming supplies. Business was normal in the capital despite the declaration of a holiday for 15 days to avoid danger of panic on the exchange and in banks. It was charged that efforts had been made to lower the exchange by dissemination of "alarmist" reports.

By GEORGE D. MAYER (United Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright, 1930, by United Press)

Montevideo, Uruguay, Oct. 7.—Warfare in all its modern strategy was in progress on three fronts in Brazil today.

While a heavy force of revolutionists advanced northward toward Rio De Janeiro, government airplanes, warships and troops were expected momentarily to strike at the two strongest centers of the revolt.

Two new factors, however, entered the picture to create further alarm in the capital. One was the threatened blockade of its inland food supply. The other was lack of communications with which to control its armies over the vast country—an area larger than the United States.

News received from private sources indicated the situation was growing more serious steadily. Brazilian circles appeared worried by the reports that the state of Pernambuco had gone over to the revolution and that Rio De Janeiro had been forced to adopt measures for strict regulation of the food supply.

The alleged defection of Pernambuco constitutes a bad blow to the government. The state is equipped with radio stations which enable the revolutionists to keep in touch with their forces over great distances, while many of the federal government's telephone lines have been cut by the rebels.

There is a widespread belief that the revolutionists, entrenched in territory on three sides of the government strongholds, have practically isolated Rio De Janeiro, at least from its immediate food sources.

The capital depends on the state of Rio Grande do Sul for its meat and on the state of Minas Geraes for its milk and vegetables. Each of these territories is in the hands of the insurrectionists, and the government is faced with a severe problem in provisioning its armies and residents of the federal district.

The states of Rio De Janeiro and Sao Paulo, objectives of the revolutionists, are comparatively small ones lying on the southeastern coast of the republic, thousands of miles from the large northern states on whose loyalty they depend.

Rebel leaders claimed today three more states had joined their cause, bringing the total to nine.

The rebels have 40,000 men under arms and are mobilizing others constantly from the reserves for their drive on the capital and Sao Paulo.

To head off this force the government has collected several warships, heavily loaded with troops, off the coast of the state and has dispatched airplane squadrons to bombard Porto Alegre, where the revolutionists are reported to have established their provisional government.

The government commandeered stocks of existing arms and ships. The Sao Paulo authorities requisitioned civil airplanes in the area for use by (Continued on page 8)

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

October 7, 1905

W. D. Washburn, Jr., of Minneapolis who has been in the city for a day for the express purpose of going over the Cuyuna range said today that he thought the Cuyuna range had a great future. He stated that as yet he was not interested in the ore mining propositions on the range, but it looked favorable to him and he might invest heavily in ore interests. Mr. Washburn has a large amount of land in the county but nothing on the Cuyuna range. He stated today that he had investigated conditions quite thoroughly in connection with the iron ore proposition here and was satisfied at least $1,000,000 had already been invested in the Cuyuna range.

The Cuyuna Cafe, over the Last Turn saloon, will be opened to the public tomorrow night for the first time. P. E. McCabe, the proprietor, has secured a first class chef. For the opening night everything will be free, and free lunches being served to which the public is invited.

The vestry of St. Paul's church has decided to extend a call to Rev. H. J. Purdue of Beloit, Wis., to become rector of the parish in Brainerd.

Dr. and Mrs. Cameron left for the Twin Cities this afternoon for a visit of a few days.

The second graduation exercises of the Northern Pacific railway hospital training school for nurses were held last night in the nurses' home, a class of five being graduated. Miss Mary Strickler was the only Brainerd young lady. Miss Laura Whittaker, superintendent of nurses, gave the report of the school and Dr. J. P. Aylen of Sheldon, N. D., gave the talk of the evening. Judge S. F. Alderman rendered a group of songs, Miss Kilkerson accompanying him.

PRESIDENT HOOVER ATTACKS SOCIALISM AND COMMUNISM

MAKES SPEECH TODAY AT KING'S MOUNTAIN, SOUTH CAROLINA

"NO BLIND MATERIALISM CAN
LONG ENGAGE LOYALTIES OF MANKIND"

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Kings Mountain, S. C., Oct. 7.—Here in the heart of the southern textile region, disturbed recently by labor troubles and communist disorders, President Hoover today denounced socialism "and its violent brother communism."

Twenty-five miles from the spot on which the president stood to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the battle of Kings Mountain is Gastonia,
N. C., where two were killed in labor trouble last year. A little further away is Marion, where seven strikers were murdered and 24 wounded. Only last week at Danville, Va., in this same mountain industrial region a cotton mill strike occurred.

Mr. Hoover left his train at Kings Mountain, N. C., and motored across the state line to the site of the battle monument.

Mr. Hoover championed what he called "the spirit of America," its ideals and its constitution which, he assured the large crowd gathered on this Revolutionary battle ground, had brought more happiness to its citizens than any government in the history of the world.

"We must keep corruptive influences from the nation and its ideals as we would keep them from our homes," he said.

"Socialism or its violent equivalent;
it would hold the swiftest to the speed of the most backward. Anarchy would provide neither training nor umpire.
Despotism or class government picks those who run and also those who win."

"Whatever the merits or demerits of these other systems may be, they all mean the destruction of the driving force of equal opportunity, and they mean the destruction of our constitution, for our political framework would serve none of them and many of its fundamental provisions are the nega-tion of them."

"They mean the abandonment of the nation's spiritual heritage."

"It is significant that some of these systems deny religion and seek to expel it. I cannot conceive of a wholesome social order or a sound economic system that does not have its roots in religious faith."

"No blind materialism can for long engage the loyalties of mankind."

Hailing the spirit of the revolutionary heroes who defeated the British on these mountain plains in their fight for freedom, and recommending that the American citizenry fight on for these principles, the executive continued:

"Crime and disobedience are the very incarnation of destruction to a system whose basis is law. Both pacifism and militarism court danger from abroad, the one by promoting weakness, the other by promoting arrogance. Failure of many of our citizens to express their opinions at the ballot box is at once their abandonment of the whole basis of self-government. Manipulation of the ballot is a denial of government by the people.
Corruption or even failure of moral perceptions in public office defies the whole spirit of America. Mere destructive criticism destroys leadership and substitutes weaklings."

"Any practice of business which would dominate the country by its own selfish interests is a destruction of equality of opportunity. Government in business, except in emergency, is also a destruction of equal opportunity and the incarnation of tyranny through bureaucracy."

"Tendencies of communities and states to shirk their own responsibility or to unload them upon the federal government, or of the federal government to encroach upon the responsibilities of the states, are destructive of our whole pattern of self-government."

Money in Different Forms

Money has not been exclusively in the form of coins and bills. Nuggets and gold dust were used on frontiers.
In the colony of Virginia money took the form of tobacco; it was wampum among the New England Indians.
Once in California red birds' heads were used.

the registrar, G. W. Schofield, and the name of the treasurer, James Gillilan.

The claims of the revolutionary leaders of successes in southern states
—Parana, Santa Catharina and Rio to the rich and important state of Sao Paulo, which is strongly federal and where government troops have been concentrated. Sao Paulo, the second city of Brazil with a population of more than 1,000,000, is about 175 miles

Speaks of Present Day Issues

CONGRESSMAN HAROLD KNUTSON of the sixth district, addressing the Clear Lake Community club, spoke of the issues of the day and summed up America very well in his opening paragraph when he said that in no other country in the world do the people enjoy such high standards of living and such opportunities for pleasure and recreation. The congressman said in part:

"Our well being does not rest upon the fertility of our soil and the magnitude of the empire embracing this great and glorious republic," said Congressman Knutson. "Much of it—indeed, most of it—comes as the result of our form of government which is a representative democracy.

"Ours is a government by party and necessarily must remain so if the government is to operate efficiently and for the best interests of the many. A breaking down of political lines can only result in the substitution of personal responsibility and in the formation of independent blocs which are more or less free lance and too often inspired in their policies by personal ambitions rather than by the desire to promote public weal.

"In this campaign the Republican party comes before the American people with a record of performance which comes very near to having fulfilled the pledges made in the several party platforms." The congressman cited the reduction of the war debt, easing of tax burdens, reducing the public debt, etc.

"No people ever recovered so speedily and completely from a stupendous calamity as did our people from the ravages and the losses of the World War. The American people themselves made this accomplishment possible through their industry, patience and patriotism, but be it remembered that this outstanding accomplishment was made under the direction of the Republican party."

He then covered expenditures in federal aid for public road building, flood control, a government building program, many forms of veteran relief, hospitalization, etc.

"I will leave it to your good sense if it does not show pretty good business ability on the part of the Republican party when it can reduce the federal debt by 10 billion dollars in 10 years and reduce taxes by nearly two billions and at the same time carry on these great public projects for relief work and development," said the congressman.

Foreign debts have been funded too. The claims have been settled on very generous terms, but it is safe to assume that the terms were based upon ability of each nation to pay.

The congressman dwelt on the fact that machinery is displacing labor. "The great World War is responsible for some of our present ills. It resulted in inflation of land values and the subsequent deflation. The same is true of the stock and commodity markets."

"Much of the unemployment that exists today is the result of machine installation, and I fear that this condition will become aggravated with time unless we go on to shorter hours, which I believe to be the only solution. Machinery is not only supplanting labor in the factory, but also on the farm."

Combines, each supplanting 12 or 15 men, are now used in the Red River Valley. They cut, thresh and load the grain all at one operation. What is true of the grain farm is equally true of the dairy farm.

"With the constant increase in production of all commodities, it follows that over-production in certain lines is inevitable." As a result of diversified diet, the per capita consumption of wheat in this country has decreased. Years ago wheat was a great staple food of our people. Today we eat more meat and potatoes, vegetables and fruits, all of which have in a measure supplanted wheat consumption. Formerly we exported our surpluses to other lands, but in recent years our foreign customers have brought their wheat production up to meet their local needs, hence the market for our surplus is gone. Argentina, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Russia and India are all heavy exporters of grains and livestock, and if a way could be found to balance our production, it would go a long way toward solving the surplus problem."

The Minnesota cow cannot compete with the coconut cow, neither can our swine raisers, and that is why the congressman favors Philippine independence. The beet grower with his sugar production is in the same boat as the dairyman. The congressman is for the early independence of the islands so that their exports to this country may pay the same rates of duty as similar commodities from other countries.

Opposition to the tariff bill has been inspired by big American industrialists who have moved their plants to Europe where they have cheaper labor and longer hours. They wanted to ship their products to this country to be sold in competition with similar products made here. The tariff bill will come as near doing justice to every part of the country and to every interest, as it is humanly possible to do, said the congressman.

Prosperity Week

PROSPERITY WEEK is essentially a period on the calendar, October 5 to 11, which will mark an era of "good times" in the theatre as well as in many lines of industry and business in a community. It has been designated to stimulate a feeling of economic optimism in all branches of business. The week has been given publicity in national advertising and by radio.

Locally the theatre carried screen notices of the week. Advertising in the Brainerd Dispatch has carried Prosperity Week mention.

Many persons believe that pessimism can be carried too far. It is beyond the confines of pure thrift to cease making necessary purchases of many kinds. When optimism freely pervades a community, state and nation, then buying and selling, which is really all that commerce is, continues in an unobstructed movement and in turn stirs all branches of endeavor.

SOMEBODY urges the killing of mudhens. They have been killed from time immemorial. But what should be noted is that the department of agriculture says they are edible. So if bent on shooting them, see that you eat them too. No bird should be killed for the mere sport of shooting.

WHEN the Cards played in the home town in Missouri, they just naturally had to show them they could play ball. The two wins by the Cardinals has put some life and color in the classic.

WARRIORS LOSE SCORE BUT SHOW GREAT IMPROVEMENT OVER LAST WEEK

BRAINERD LINE BROKEN BY THE LARGE BEMIDJI SQUAD

Cochman Damman's Warriors lost a well fought battle last week to the Bemidji squad with a score of 12 to 0. Outweighed both in the line and the backfield, the Brainerd boys were unable to stand up against the pile drive attack aimed at their ranks by the Bemidji aggregation.

The team from the north found the center of the line especially susceptible to their attack and succeeded in scoring twice by a steady march from the center of the field, and then plunging over the line. The Brainerd warriors, though beaten in this game, played much better football and showed great improvement over their game with Wadena a week ago.

Moe and Harvey, at tackle, broke up many of the plays by which Bemidji had hoped to realize long gains. McPherson and Swanson, both Sophomores, held their parts at center commendably well, while Templeton, Gabiou and Foster played very good ball in the backfield. The line-up was as follows:

Brainerd—Marshall and B. Wygle, re; G. Wygle and Lukens, le; Garvey, rt; Moe and Armstrong, lt; Wareing and Koek, rg; Hass and Stanley, lg; McPherson and Swanson, c; Franks and Hogan, qb; Templeton, lb; Gabiou, rh; Foster, fb.

Bemidji—Weir, re; Burckish, le; Wessel, rt; Olson, lt; Riquiste and Knapp, rg; Connolly, lg; MacDonald, c; Miller, (C) qb; Vipond, lb; Krause, rh; J. Elwell, fb.

SEMPER PARATUS CLUB ORGANIZES

LAST YEAR'S S. P. C. MEMBERS MEET TO PLAN FOR THE NEW YEAR

Although many more than thirty active members were left with the graduating class last spring, there are only thirty old members remaining who, with the aid of twenty more selected students, will carry on the activities of the club through the following year.

At a special meeting called last Tuesday many important questions were brought up, discussed and voted upon. It was decided that the dues would be fifteen cents for each monthly meeting (liable to change). First a literary meeting and then a dramatic meeting was brought up but not definitely settled, although it seemed a good plan. It was decided that Edman Jernberg, the president, should meet with the group of new members who wished to join. After they are voted upon and "received with open arms," an election of officers will be held and all other business settled with co-operation of old and new members alike.

Under the supervision of Miss Mathis and Miss Clausen a very enjoyable and profitable year is assured.

A REQUIEM

Ah, the memories of staunch friends who are departed from among us with no appropriate mourning. Have we all forgotten the enormous maples that once adorned these spacious grounds of ours?

All that's left is the memory and until recently those sprawling, gruesome roots that lifted their beseeching arms so vainly to the heavens.

Yeah—vainly. Those who passed had only mean, heart-rending words for those lonely bygones. People say, "Aren't they horrible? I wonder when the school board is going to have them taken away!"

They had no sympathy for the life those poor roots have led lately. First they are slashed and cut with saws and axes so mercilessly depriving them of their splendid trunks and whispering leaves; then the men come and dynamite them from the folds of dear old Mother Earth; there they are left cold and homeless till they are dragged to places unknown where they are probably burnt or just discarded.

Now our grounds are being transformed into expansive lawns with promise of bushes and other adornments but no trees for years and years.

The laborers work so cheerfully and well that it is contagious. Many times a day those groaning, plodding trucks pass our windows and fairly cheer at us because we are slack in our studies. Don't they make one feel guilty?

Ah, but think of the splendid school grounds we'll have in the future and how the Senators will hate to leave us. And also think of all the mystery and secret thoughts that are lost with those good, old, faithful trees we once loved so well.

Miss Walkup: They say if you eat an apple a day you keep the doctor away.

George Irvine: Well I ate six one day and they nearly had to call him.

EXCHANGE

Another new set of exchange has come in. Those from—Cloquet (Pine Needle); Hamline Racine from Hamline University; "Lakamas" from Green, Washington; Minnesota Daily from University of Minnesota; Mac Weekly, a publication of Macalester College of St. Paul. We expect big changes from Little Falls, Bemidji, Anoka and Staples, as we sent our last weeks paper to these respective schools.

WARRIORS GIVEN ROUSING SENDOFF AT PEPFEST FRI.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENTS GIVEN BY MISS TORNSTROM

"Come in faster and with less noise!" was the first point stressed by Miss Tornstrom in the auditorium Friday. The fact that singing would be resumed Monday met with the hearty approval and joy of the audience.

She also stated that there were more absences than were necessary (due in all probability to the luscious green apples and plums being consumed). And unless a written excuse is handed in the absentee will receive an unsatisfactory pass.

In regard to lockers, although very few locks had been purchased, very little tampering had been done, which is quite a credit to the students and the school.

The Freshmen and Sophomores were advised to organize if the members wished to participate in any activity this fall. Also they were urged to try out for Brainonian and so disclose any hidden literary genius.

Miss Tornstrom stated further about season football tickets which would be purchased from Mr. Rosel or his assistants (who are a group of high school students). Everyone who planned to attend the home games was urged to buy one.

After the announcements a pep-fest was held for the purpose of giving the team a rousing send-off for the Bemidji-Brainerd game at Bemidji Saturday.

Miss O'Brien, with the aid of Evelyn Loom at the piano, led the singing of "Go Brainerd High School."

Lyle Mayo led the cheering of four peppy yells which ended the pep-fest with hope of victory high in everyone's heart for the game to be so soon played.

Girls' Gym Classes to Take Up Folk Dancing

This week Miss Flueck plans on starting something new in the girls gym classes—folk dancing. A piano has been placed in the gym which will be used during the exercises. Two girls from each gym class have volunteered to play while the rest keep time in doing folk and clog dances, and many other exercises of that kind.

The piano will be used once a week for this purpose, and it is hoped that enough interest is aroused to make this prove a success.

Social Science Students Outline Dept's of Gov't

Charts and outlines concerning themselves with numerous phases in Social Science were presented by various students to Richard L. Penrose, Social Science instructor.

A chart concerning the president was handed in by LeRoy Wyett, and charts concerning the treasury department by Harold Moe, Bernice Steinfeldt, Marion Mitchell and Janet Kampmann.

A diagram of the treasury system and secretary of state was constructed by the instructor, Richard Penrose. All these diagrams were neatly constructed in black ink and on cardboard.

COMING OR GOING WE CATCH 'EM

Miss Tornstrom, free from cares and worries, spent an enjoyable weekend canoeing from Taylor Falls to Stillwater in company with Eula Michael, Gerhardt Flaata, Jakob Preston and Marie Adair. They joined relatives of Miss Tornstrom, Mabel and Arthur Tornstrom.

Miss Lord, Miss Haug, Miss Cochran and Miss Swanson journeyed to St. Paul over the week-end.

Miss Mathis visited at her home in Excelsior, and Miss Walkup in Minneapolis Saturday and Sunday.

Melvin and Marion Newman spent Thursday in Duluth.

Meditation of a Sophomore in the Study Hall

Heavens! Here it is the second period and I've got to study. (What are my lessons today, anyway?) 'Spouse if I look at that modern I'll be able to do a little reciting in class. ('S funny Miss Walkup doesn't kick me out of class.)

"Hello, Lois." This old Latin surely is hard. I'll never take anything beyond Caesar. Thank goodness, I don't have to. Oh, yes, 's right. I don't have to study modern today—quizz in class. (Perhaps I'll be a little more clever in Latin.)

Ho-um, I do hate this idea of getting up at midnight to get to school. That crazy clock would be fast so that I'd get up at fifteen to seven rather than seven.

Hi, Doris! How's a girl? Shucks! only twenty after. Time's too slow. Wonder what I'll do when I'll have to get up and get my breakfast in a cold kitchen. Brrrrrr! I hate to think of it.

I pe I don't flunk that modern quiz.

Saw one of those seniors 's mornin', and talk about conceit! Boy it just radiates from 'em. They can be nice 'th. There are a few that I like. Wonder what I'll be like when I'm a senior.

"Hey Charles! Give me that ruler. I'll tell Miss Farranokop!" That's the second time he's taken that today. Will the period never end?

VARIED ASSEMBLY HELD YESTERDAY

WEEKLY SINGING, LED BY MISS O'BRIEN, TO BE RESUMED

Miss Tornstrom and her usual announcements opened the program on Monday. She urged all not to walk on the lawn-to-be; and all who have cars for the Junior-Senior picnic to let her know.

Miss O'Brien and Evelyn Loom, at the piano, led the singing for the following selections which were not rendered exceptionally well by the audience. It is hoped that it will go much better in the future.

Happy Days Are Here Again. I Get the Blues When It Rains. Go, Brainerd High School.

Mr. Cobb spoke a few words in behalf of the football game which is to take place Friday. He stressed the need for the pupils to keep out of the football square. He also urged the pupils to buy season tickets.

Mr. Dammann, Mr. Cobb, and Jim Garvey, football captain, entered into a free for all discussion concerning Friday's game.

Jim is sure of a 20-0 victory if 300 tickets are sold. "At least, he asserts, 'We will do our part.'"

The student body is urged to co-operate in the buying of season tickets. At the nominal price of fifty cents for four games, every student who is "football conscious" should feel in duty bound to buy a ticket in advance, and not view the game from the sidelines. Students should give financial support to the team as well as yell at the pep fests. So buy your tickets, fans.

TRI-HI INITIATION TO BE ON FRIDAY

At a drastic meeting (for the pledges) last Thursday a regular ceremony was carried on between the pledges and the actives of the Tri-Hi.

The lowly and unworthy members-to-be took their positions on newspapers brought from home at the feet of their most honorable and worthy actives, who sat regarding them with a dangerous glint in their eyes.

Louise Clausen, president, called for the themes which each pledge was required to write, demonstrating her object in desiring to join the Tri-Hi club. Most of them gave as their reason the desire for eats (which is very natural but not so good as an object).

Mittens were worn all through the entire meeting while the following rules were given:

Do not wear any cosmetics whatever! Do not hold any conversation with any boys!

Monday: All are required to wear big blue ribbons and if hair is very long, to wear it in braids.

Tuesday: Wear mittens. Wednesday: Wear dark stocking and light shoe on right foot and light stocking and dark shoe on left foot.

Thursday: Indefinite, but oh, so dangerous.

Friday: Open doors at 7:45 A. M. and 1:05 P. M.

Friday night: Initiation! Wear old clothes and shoes.

Beware Ye Pledges!

The students and faculty of the Brainerd High School unite in extending their deepest sympathy to Arthur and Robert Brown in their hour of bereavement.

GILBERT LAKE TO BE SCENE OF ANNUAL JUNIOR-SENIOR PICNIC

COMM. CLUB PICNIC TO BE HELD MON. AT ROUND LAKE

SENIOR MEMBERS TO ENTERTAIN JUNIORS AT HOFFBAUER'S COTTAGE

At a meeting held last Monday night after school the Commercial club elected Gertrude Gartner, vice president; Fay Rosina, secretary; and Frances Peterson, treasurer, to aid the president, Louise Clausen, in the year's activities of this organization.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held at the Hoffbauer cottage on Round Lake the following Monday, the seniors entertaining the juniors. The committees which were appointed included: transportation, Malda Kleinschmidt, chairman, and Lucille Erickson; entertainment, Jean Cass, chairman, Vernice Knatz, and Helen Noyes; refreshment, Margaret Berg, chairman, Mary Schoen, Mardelle Cunningham and Marian Olson.

Drapery material was also selected to be purchased in the near future. This cloth is to be made up into curtains for the office of the commercial department.

Camp Fire Girls Make Plans for Food Sale to Bolster Treasury

The Netoppew Camp Fire girls met at their regular meeting at the high school last Tuesday for the transaction of business and discussion of topics of interest.

The meeting was brought to order by the president and duly opened by singing the famous "Netoppew Cheer." Suggestions were made and plans drawn for the holding of a food sale in the near future in order to raise funds for future use. Ruth Sifer and Evelyn Bahr were appointed to locate a building in which to hold the sale.

After a period of lively discussion the group decided on keeping an account book for the general good of the organization. This book will contain written reports and pictures illustrating the events taking place this year. Marcella Favrow was appointed to take charge of the matter.

With the handling of this topic the motion was made and seconded that the meeting be adjourned and the members were duly dismissed by the president.

Mildred Johnson: "You are so good to me I am going to let you take me to dinner."

John Folsom: Wait a minute, does your mother know I am coming?

Miss Spencer: "Can you prove the square of the hypotenuse is equal to the sum of the squares of the two sides of this triangle."

Doris G.: "I don't have to prove it. I admit it."

Normal Training Notes

During the last few weeks, several trips have been made through the surrounding country, where Miss Reid, Mrs. Hartley and most of the Department girls have observed many of the rural schools. Such observation is very interesting as well as valuable as student teachers who are in training for just such work as these rural teachers are doing.

A visit to the Crosby-Inton Training Department was greatly enjoyed as were also observations in the Cuyuna Grade School. On this trip, Miss Reid reported to have seen a bear cross the road ahead of her. Contrary to regular bear stories, she returned safely and reports having felt no fear.

Last week, four of the girls visited Mrs. Loom's and Mrs. Curo's schools.

At present, all of the students are observing grade work in the Riverside, Garfield, Lowell and Harrison buildings. A small amount of practice teaching satisfactorily breaks the monotony of regular routine observation. This work will be discontinued when all of the girls have spent two weeks in their appointed building. Observation hours will be reversed during the second week.

CLASSES TO HOLD JOINT FROLIC AT USUAL PLACE OCTOBER 8

At a senior meeting held last Thursday after school the class decided to hold the senior-junior picnic, October 8, at Gilbert Lake. Arguments were given for and against having it at Birchdale or Gilbert, but Miss Tornstrom's argument that people who didn't dance couldn't enjoy themselves at those other places—won the vote of the class for Gilbert. According to Miss Tornstrom's experiences, Gilbert is an ideal picnic location and is near enough to town to have a good time before dark.

The secretary's minutes were read and approved and the president announced that the next order for rings would be sent in on Friday, October 3, after which the meeting was adjourned.

ENGLISH FOUR CLASSES BUY LITERATURE BOOKS

When Miss Mathis and Miss Walkup informed the seniors that it would be necessary to purchase English IV books, they scurried hither and yon in search of alumni from whom they might purchase a second-hand book. But try as they might, nothing could separate the alumni from their beloved possessions. They were all glad to loan their treasures, but from a sentimental point of view they could not be induced to sell them for love nor money. The high school office sold 80 of these books at $1.85 a piece. They were secured from Scott Foraman and Co., and contain the finest selections of English poetry and prose that have been written since. English literature began 12 centuries ago. Some of the works had to be translated from old English script. These books form a fitting nucleus for future libraries and will prove valuable to those who go to college.

HOLLYWOOD STUDIO GIVEN SENIOR BID

Last night's meeting of the Senior class decided who the 1930-31 photographer was to be. The Hollywood Studio was chosen by a very large vote. Three studios had submitted their bids through the Board of Education. The bids were read to the class by Mr. Hohman, Secretary of the Board.

The Hollywood's bid was as follows: Any style finish and folder, a school monogram printed on the folder, choice of four poses. One glossy print free, one "8x10" silver tone portrait suitable for framing with every order of one dozen or more.

One dozen $5.00.
Two dozen $9.00.
Three dozen $12.00.

For all group pictures for the Brainonian Annual $30.00.

The folder chosen is known as the Elmore Easel. It is dark brown in color and is of a futuristic design.

The Brainerd warriors, though beaten in this game, played much better football and showed great improvement over their game with Wadena a week ago.

Moe and Harvey, at tackle, broke up many of the plays by which Bemidji had hoped to realize long gains. McPherson and Swanson, both Sophomores, held their parts at center commendably well, while Templeton, Gabiou and Foster played very good ball in the backfield. The line-up was as follows:

Brainerd—Marshall and B. Wygle, re; G. Wygle and Lukens, le; Garvey, re; Moe and Armstrong, lt; Wareing and Koeck, rg; Hass and Stanley, lg; McPherson and Swanson, c; Franks and Hogan, qb; Templeton, lb; Gabiou, rh; Foster, fb.

Bemidji—Weir, re; Burquist, le; Wessel, rt; Olson, lt; Ritchie and Knapton, rg; Connolly, lg; MacDonald, c; Miller, (C) qb; Vipond, lb; Krause, rh; J. Elwell, fb.

SEMPER PARATUS
CLUB ORGANIZESLAST YEAR'S S. P. C. MEMBERS
MEET TO PLAN FOR THE NEW YEAR

Although many more than thirty active members were left with the graduating class last spring, there are only thirty old members remaining who, with the aid of twenty more selected students, will carry on the activities of the club through the following year.

At a special meeting called last Tuesday many important questions were brought up, discussed and voted upon. It was decided that the dues would be fifteen cents for each monthly meeting (liable to change). First a literary meeting and then a dramatic was brought up but not definitely settled, although it seemed a good plan. It was decided that Edman Jernberg, the president, should meet with the group of new members who wished to join. After they are voted upon and "received with open arms," an election of officers will be held and all other business settled with the co-operation of old and new members alike.

Under the supervision of Miss Mathis and Miss Clausen a very enjoyable and profitable year is assured.

A REQUIEM

Ah, the memories of staunch friends who are departed from among us with no appropriate mourning. Have we all forgotten the enormous maples that once adorned these spacious grounds of ours?

All that's left is the memory and until recently those sprawling, gruesome roots that lifted their beseeching arms so vainly to the heavens. Yeah—vainly. They who passed had only mean, heart-rending words for those lonely bygoners. People say, "Aren't they horrible?" I wonder when the school board is going to have them taken away!

They had no sympathy for the life those poor roots have led lately. First they are slashed and cut with saws and axes so mercilessly depriving them of their splendid trunks and whispering leaves; then the men come and dynamite them from the folds of dear old Mother Earth; there they are left cold and homeless till they are dragged to places unknown where they are probably burnt or just discarded.

Now our grounds are being transformed into expansive lawns with promise of bushes and other adornments but no trees for years and years. The laborers work so cheerfully and well that it is contagious. Many times a day those groaning, plodding trucks pass our windows and fairly cheer at us because we are slack in our studies. Don't they make one feel guilty?

Ah, but think of the splendid school grounds we'll have in the future and how the Seniors will hate to leave us. And also think of all the mystery and secret thoughts that are lost with those good, old, faithful trees we once loved so well.

Miss Walkup: They say if you eat an apple a day you keep the doctor away.
George Irvine: Well I ate six one day and they nearly had to call him.

EXCHANGE

Another new set of exchange has come in. Those from—Cloquet (Pine Needle); Hamline Racle from Hamline University; "Lakamas" from Cloquet, Washington; Minnesota Daily from University of Minnesota; Mac Weekly, a publication of Macalester College, of St. Paul. We expect exchanges from Little Falls, Bemidji, Anoka and Staples, as we sent our last weeks paper to these respective schools.

WARRIORS GIVEN
ROUSING SENDOFF
AT PEPFEST FRI.IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENTS
GIVEN BY MISS TORNSTROM

"Come in faster and with less noise" was the first point stressed by Miss Tornstrom in the auditorium Friday. The fact that singing would be resumed Monday met with the hearty approval and joy of the audience.

She also stated that there were more absences than were necessary (due in all probability to the luscious green apples and plums being consumed). And unless a written excuse is handed in the absentee will receive an unsatisfactory pass.

In regard to lockers, although very few lockers had been purchased, very little tampering had been done, which is quite a credit to the students and the school.

The Freshmen and Sophomores were advised to organize if the members wished to participate in any activity this fall. Also they were urged to try out for Brainerdian and so disclose any hidden literary genius.

Miss Tornstrom stated further about season football tickets which would be purchased from Mr. Rosel or his assistants (who are a group of high school students). Everyone who planned to attend the home games was urged to buy one.

After the announcements a pep-fest was held for the purpose of giving the team a rousing send-off for the Bemidji-Brainerd game at Bemidji Saturday.

Miss O'Brien, with the aid of Evelyn Loom at the piano, led the singing of "Go Brainerd High School."

Lyle Mayo led the cheering of four peppy yells which ended the pep-fest with hope of victory high in everyone's heart for the game to be so soon played.

Girls' Gym Classes to Take Up Folk Dancing

This week Miss Flueck plans on starting something new in the girls' gym classes—folk dancing. A piano has been placed in the gym, which will be used during the exercises. Two girls from each gym class have volunteered to play while the rest keep time in doing folk and clog dances, and many other exercises of that kind.

The piano will be used once a week for this purpose, and it is hoped that enough interest is aroused to make this prove a success.

Social Science Students
Outline Dept's of Gov't

Charts and outlines concerning themselves with numerous phases in Social Science were presented by various students to Richard L. Penrose, Social Science instructor.

A chart concerning the president was handed in by LeRoy Wyett, and charts concerning the treasury department by Harold Moe, Bernice Steinfeld, Marion Mitchell and Janet Kampmann.

A diagram of the treasury system and secretary of state was constructed by the instructor, Richard Penrose. All these diagrams were neatly constructed in black ink and on cardboard.

COMING OR GOING
WE CATCH 'EM

Miss Tornstrom, free from cares and worries, spent an enjoyable week-end canoeing from Taylor Falls to Stillwater in company with Eula Michael, Gerhardt Flanta, Jakob Preston and Marie Adair. They joined relatives of Miss Tornstrom, Mabel and Arthur Tornstrom.

Miss Lord, Miss Haug, Miss Cochran and Miss Swanson journeyed to St. Paul over the week-end.

Miss Mathis visited at her home in Excelsior, and Miss Walkup in Minneapolis Saturday and Sunday.

Melvin and Marion Newman spent Thursday in Duluth.

Meditation of a Sophomore in the Study Hall

Heavens! Here it is the second period and I've got to study. (What are my lessons today, anyway?) 'Spoke if I look at that modern I'll be able to do a little reciting in class. ('S funny Miss Walkup doesn't kick me out of class.)

"Hello, Lois."

This old Latin surely is hard. I'll never take anything beyond Caesar. Thank goodness, I don't have to.

Oh, yes, 's right. I don't have to study modern today—quiz in class. (Perhaps I'll be a little more clever in Latin.)

Ho-hum, I do hate this idea of getting up at midnight to get to school. That crazy clock would be fast so that I'd get up at fifteen to seven rather than seven.

Hi, Doris! How's a girl?

Shucks! Only twenty after. Time's too slow. Wonder what I'll do when I'll have to get up and get my breakfast in a cold kitchen. Brrrrrr! I hate to think of it.

I hope I don't flunk that modern quiz.

Saw one of those seniors 's mornin', and I talk about conceit! Boy it just radiates from 'em. They can be nice tho'. There are a few that I like. Wonder what I'll be like when I'm a senior?

"Hey Charlie! Give me that ruler. I'll tell Miss Farrankopf!" That's the second time he's taken that today. Will the period never end?

VARIED ASSEMBLY
HELD YESTERDAYWEEKLY SINGING, LED BY MISS
O'BRIEN, TO BE RESUMED

Miss Tornstrom and her usual announcements opened the program on Monday. She urged all not to walk on the lawn-to-be; and all who have cars for the Junior-Senior picnic to let her know.

Miss O'Brien and Evelyn Loom, at the piano, led the singing for the following selections which were not rendered exceptionally well by the audience. It is hoped that it will go much better in the future.

Happy Days Are Here Again.
I Get the Blues When It Rains.
Go, Brainerd High School.

Mr. Cobb spoke a few words in behalf of the football game which is to take place Friday. He stressed the need for the pupils to keep out of the football square. He also urged the pupils to buy season tickets.

Mr. Dammann, Mr. Cobb and Jim Garvey, football captain, entered into a free for all discussion concerning Friday's game.

Jim is sure of a 20-0 victory if 300 tickets are sold. "At least, he asserts, 'We will do our part.'"

The student body is urged to co-operate in the buying of season tickets. At the nominal price of fifty cents for four games, every student who is "football conscious" should feel in duty bound to buy a ticket in advance, and not view the game from the sidelines. Students should give financial support to the team as well as yell at the pep fests. So buy your tickets, fans.

TRI-HI INITIATION TO BE ON FRIDAY

At a drastic meeting (for the pledges) last Thursday a regular ceremony was carried on between the pledges and the actives of the Tri-Hi.

The lowly and unworthy members-to-be took their positions on newspapers brought from home at the feet of their most honorable and worthy actives, who sat regarding them with a dangerous glint in their eyes.

Louise Clausen, president, called for the themes which each pledge was required to write, demonstrating her object in desiring to join the Tri-Hi club. Most of them gave as their reason the desire for cats (which is very natural but not so good as an object.)

Mittens were worn all through the entire meeting while the following rules were given:

Do not wear any cosmetics whatever!

Do not hold any conversation with any boys!

Monday: All are required to wear big blue ribbons and if hair is very long, to wear it in braids.

Tuesday: Wear mittens.

Wednesday: Wear dark stockings and light shoe on right foot and light stockings and dark shoe on left foot.

Thursday: Indefinite, but oh, so dangerous.

Friday: Open doors at 7:45 A. M. and 1:05 P. M.

Friday night: Initiation! Wear old clothes and shoes.

Beware Ye Pledges!

The students and faculty of the Brainerd High School unite in extending their deepest sympathy to Arthur and Robert Brown in their hour of bereavement.

COMM. CLUB PICNIC
TO BE HELD MON.
AT ROUND LAKESENIOR MEMBERS TO ENTER
TAIN JUNIORS AT HOFF-
BAUER'S COTTAGE

At a meeting held last Monday night after school the Commercial club elected Gertrude Gartner, vice president; Fay Rosina, secretary; and Frances Peterson, treasurer, to aid the president, Louise Clausen, in the year's activities of this organization. Plans were made for a picnic to be held at the Hoffbauer cottage on Round Lake the following Monday, the seniors entertaining the Juniors. The committees which were appointed included: transportation, Maleta Kleinschmidt, chairman, and Lucille Erickson; entertainment, Jean Cass, chairman, Vernice Kaatz and Helen Nogel; refreshment, Margaret Berg, chairman, Mary Schoen, Mardelle Cunningham and Marian Olson.

Drapery material was also selected to be purchased in the near future. This cloth is to be made up into curtains for the office of the commercial department.

Camp Fire Girls Make Plans for Food Sale to Bolster Treasury

The Netoppew Camp Fire girls met at their regular meeting at the high school last Tuesday for the transaction of business and discussion of topics of interest.

The meeting was brought to order by the president and duly opened by singing the famous "Netoppew Cheer." Suggestions were made and plans drawn for the holding of a food sale in the near future in order to raise funds for future use. Ruth Sifer and Evelyn Bahr were appointed to locate a building in which to hold the sale.

After a period of lively discussion the group decided on keeping an account book for the general good of the organization. This book will contain written reports and pictures illustrating the events taking place this year. Marcella Fayrow was appointed to take charge of the matter.

With the handling of this topic the motion was made and seconded that the meeting be adjourned and the members were duly dismissed by the president.

Mildred Johnson: You are so good to me I am going to let you take me to dinner.

John Folsom: Wait a minute, does your mother know I am coming?

Miss Spencer: "Can you prove the square of the hypotenuse is equal to the sum of the squares of the two sides of this triangle."

Doris G.: "I don't have to prove it. I admit it."

Normal Training Notes

During the last few weeks, several trips have been made through the surrounding country, where Miss Reid, Mrs. Hartley and most of the Department girls have observed many of the rural schools. Such observation is very interesting as well as valuable as student teachers who are in training for just such work as these rural teachers are doing.

A visit to the Crosby-Ironton Training Department was greatly enjoyed as were also observations in the Cuyuna Grade School. On this trip, Miss Reid reported to have seen a bear cross the road ahead of her. Contrary to regular bear stories, she returned safely and reports having felt no fear.

Last week, four of the girls visited Mrs. Loom's and Mrs. Curo's schools. At present, all of the students are observing grade work in the Riverside, Garfield, Lowell and Harrison buildings. A small amount of practice teaching satisfactorily breaks the monotony of regular routine observation. This work will be discontinued when all of the girls have spent two weeks in their appointed building. Observation hours will be reversed during the second week.

CLASSES TO HOLD JOINT FROLIC
AT USUAL PLACE
OCTOBER 6

At a senior meeting held last Thursday after school the class decided to hold the senior-junior picnic, October 6, at Gilbert Lake. Arguments were given for and against having it at Birchdale or Gilbert, but Miss Tornstrom's argument that people who didn't dance couldn't enjoy themselves at those other places—won the vote of the class for Gilbert. According to Miss Tornstrom's experiences, Gilbert is an ideal picnic location and is near enough to town to have a good time before dark.

The secretary's minutes were read and approved and the president announced that the next order for rings would be sent in on Friday, October 3, after which the meeting was adjourned.

ENGLISH FOUR CLASSES
BUY LITERATURE BOOKS

When Miss Mathis and Miss Walkup informed the seniors that it would be necessary to purchase English IV books, they scurried hither and yon in search of alumni from whom they might purchase a second-hand book. But try as they might, nothing could separate the alumni from their beloved possessions. They were all glad to loan their treasures, but from a sentimental point of view they could not be induced to sell them for love nor money. The high school office sold 80 of these books at $1.85 a piece. They were secured from Scott Forsman and Co., and contain the finest selections of English poetry and prose that have been written since. English literature began 12 centuries ago. Some of the works had to be translated from old English script. These books form a fitting nucleus for future libraries and will prove valuable to those who go to college.

HOLLYWOOD STUDIO
GIVEN SENIOR BID

Last night's meeting of the Senior class decided who the 1930-31 photographer was to be. The Hollywood Studio was chosen by a very large vote. Three studios had submitted their bids through the Board of Education. The bids were read to the class by Mr. Hohman, Secretary of the Board.

The Hollywood's bid was as follows: Any style finish and folder, a school monogram printed on the folder, choice of four poses. One glossy print free, one "8x10" silver tone portrait suitable for framing with every order of one dozen or more.

One dozen $5.00.
Two dozen $9.00.
Three dozen $12.00.

For all group pictures for the Brainerd Annual $30.00.
The folder chosen is known as the Elmore Easel. It is dark brown in color and is of a futuristic design.

"WILD BILL" HALLAHAN HOLDS FATE OF CARDS IN HANDS

ST. LOUIS PRAYS HE WILL STEM MACKMEN BATS

FOXX HOME RUN YESTERDAY BROKE UP AIRTIGHT PITCHING

BURLEIGH GRIMES' SPITBALL HAD BEEN WORKING GOOD UNTIL THEN

World Series Special Enroute to Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—In the days of our youth, when ball players had just discarded their mutton chop whiskers, but still spat on their hands and wore red flannel underwear, there was a popular song to the effect that: "H-A double R-I-G-A-N spells Harrigan."

It had quite a catchy tune, and went on to state that this Harrigan lad was: "Proud of all the Irish blood that's in me."

"Divil a man can say a word agin me." Now it may be that before the current world series, which is about to enter its sixth phase, passes on to take its proper place in baseball lore, the song birds of St. Louis will be paraphrasing that ancient piece in honor of a snub-nosed, freckle faced boy and humming:

"H-A-double L-A-H-A-N spells Hallahan."

For as matters stand today about all that stands between the St. Louis Cardinals and defeat is sturdy young Bill Hallahan.

With the Philadelphia Athletics leading, three games to two, "Wild Bill" from Binghamton holds the fate of the National League champions in his capable left hand.

If he can hold the Mackmen tomorrow, as he did before a delighted St. Louis throng on Saturday, he will be worth all the songs in St. Louisans' repertoire.

It will be Hallahan for the Cards tomorrow, against which ever pitcher Connie Mack elects to start. Once more the Irish boy from up-state New York is called upon to play David to the A's Goliath. In the third game of the series, when it seemed that nothing could avert another such rout as National League champions have undergone for the past three years, "Wild Bill," belting his nickname with the coolness of a veteran, shut out the Mackmen with seven scattered hits, beat them 5 to 0, and so disconcerted them that they wound up by scoring only one run in 30 consecutive innings.

When the Athletics resumed scoring yesterday, however, they did so with a crash and a bang. The crash was the impact of Jimmy Foxx's big black bat against the ball and the bang was the collision between the ball and a hastily vacated left field bleacher seat. That home run of Jimmy's, scoring Mickey Cochrane ahead of him, punctuated as pretty a pitching duel as a world series crowd has looked upon for many an October day. Until Foxx intruded, Burleigh Grimes had been splashing his spitball past the A's until he had them yelling for life preservers. For the opposing camp, George Earnshaw and Lefty Grove have been standing the Cardinals on their chests. The left field score board showed more zeros than a school boy's report card until the A's went to bat in the ninth inning yesterday.

Mickey Cochrane, who has been engaging Burleigh Grimes in a verbal duel throughout the series, led off for the Athletics in that session.

"Hello, Big Ears," Grimes greeted the Philadelphia catcher. "Better fasten back those shutters or I'll bust 'em for you."

Well, what with one witty saying and another, Grimes neglected to get enough balls over the plate, and Cochrane walked, emitting loud and raucous razzberries in the direction of the pitcher's box.

This brought up Al Simmons, who, as it happened, was shy a safety pin for his flannel knickers, and Grimes had a merry time of it kidding Al, the latter being handicapped by having to bat with practically one hand. This time the laugh was with Burleigh, for Simmons popped weakly to Gelbert.

Then Jimmy Foxx advanced to the plate. Grimes sent the ball over about knee high, while thinking up an appropriate witticism with which to disconcert the A's first baseman.

That gag, whatever it was to have been, is one that never will be sprung, for Jimmy took hold of the ball with all the muscular force of his brawny shoulders, arms and torso and the crash of ash on horsehide was heard as far away as Philadelphia. The ball, in fact, started in the general direction of the latter city, soaring through the mist, over the fence and far away. With it went the ball game.

The Athletics were a happy lot when they reached their dressing room. They were somewhat goofy, in fact. They even broke out into college cheers, huddled together, somewhat to this effect:

"They can't beat the A's, they can't beat the A's, they can't beat the A's."

After which, with three Japs and a tiger for Mr. McGillicuddy, they scrambled into their plus fours and entrained for home, singing something about dying for dear old Philadelphia.

But for the Cardinals, this is a grim, business-like affair with the long end of world series spoils at stake, if nothing else. There is a difference of $1,928 between the winner's and loser's individual shares. That figure alone is enough to make the veterans on the St. Louis team fighting mad, as it was in 1928 when they were walloped in four straight games by the New York Yankees.

The Cards of 1930 have averted any

GOPHERS SETTLE DOWN TO HARD WEEK'S PRACTICE

SPURRED ON BY RETURN OF CLINT RIEBETH

CALLED UPON SATURDAY TO MEET GREATEST STANFORD FOOTBALL MACHINE

COACH CRISLER CONTINUES HIS PROGRAM OF MOULDING ENTIRE SQUAD TO SHAPE

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Spurred on by the return of Clint Riebeth, flashy halfback, to practice, the University of Minnesota football squad dug their cleats into the turf of historic Northrop Field today and settled down for their hardest week's practice.

Less than 10 hours of practice remained to the Gopher squad before they will be called upon Saturday to meet one of the greatest Stanford football machines ever turned out by "Pop" Warner.

Though he realized that chances were slight, Coach Fritz Crisler clung to his announced program of bringing his entire squad along slowly rather than concentrating on any one group of players.

Five complete teams and some odd men continue to gallop up and down Northrop Field daily. The squad is the largest for this period of the year ever to work out under the colors of the Maroon and Gold.

Fundamentals, blocking, tackling, handling the ball and taking out interference were stressed by the Minnesota coaches. The men will be given grueling workouts during the week to build up their stamina for the bitter clash with Stanford.

Johnny MacDougal, 160-pound quarterback, whose running and defensive work was one of the few bright spots in the disastrous Vanderbilt conflict, will be given intensive training in signal calling in order to increase his team management technique.

you make are going to hurry me away. I'm entitled to tell you what I think of you after that terrible exhibition."

"Well, I don't intend to listen to much more of your conversation. If you're still around here when I finish dusting off this plate, you are certainly going to get a ticket to the club house."

"I'll be here."

I realized full well that the player wanted to be put out of the ball game. It was a Saturday afternoon and the crowd numbered about 20,000, a mighty big gathering in those days. I didn't want to chase the star if I could possibly avoid it. After wearing off most of the whisk broom and getting the plate scrupulously clean, I found my friend was still with me.

"You're through," I quietly remarked. I had resorted to every possible means to keep him in the game; now to maintain discipline it was necessary that I put him out. As I uttered the fatal words he hurried to the club house without further comment. I realized that I had been the goat of the situation but I had no alternative.

The Expected Happens

It is a saying among explorers that only amateurs have adventures. What explorers have in the field is experience. The unexpected is always expected; inconvenience and hazard are occupational risks.—Country Home.

BISHOP SCORES

Bishop, Connie Mack's star second baseman, is shown crossing the home plate with the first and only run the team made in the fourth game of the world series played in St. Louis. The run was scored on Simmons' single.

HELPS CARDINALS WIN

Hafey, left fielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, helped his mates win the fourth game of the world series, squaring the score with the Athletics at two games all. The above picture shows Hafey sliding over the home plate safely in the fourth inning when Jimmy Foxx threw low to the plate.

Interior Chief Charges Oil Sold to Interests

Ralph S. Kelley, chief of the General Land Office, at Denver, Colo., has been asked by Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, to appear at the Capitol prepared to disclose information to the Senate committee. He says $40,000,000,000 oil fields were sold for $2,000,000.

33 STANFORD MEN TO LEAVE FOR MINNESOTA

Palo Alto, Calif., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Thirty-three men on the football squad of Stanford university were to leave this afternoon for Minneapolis for the forthcoming game Saturday with the University of Minnesota.

Back field men: Harold Allen, Guido Cagliari, Bill Clark, Harry Hillman, Phil Moffat, Rudolph Rintala, Harlow Rothert, Bill Sinkins, Phil Winnick, Bud Hardy and Ernie Caddel.

Aftermath

Mrs. Etta Pearson, who lies in a Grand Rapids, Mich., hospital with a bullet wound in the chest while her husband sits silently at her bedside awaiting her recovery so that they can start life all over again. She was shot by Victor Dahlin, former Swedish Baptist minister and more recently a Chicago paint dealer, when she refused to return to him. Dahlin then killed himself.

At least 528 species of plants from other lands have made themselves at home in New Zealand, says a botanist who has been studying them. Two Ol' Pals Make Good

By HARDIN BURNLEY

FOR several seasons, Walter Johnson and "Gabby" Street undoubtedly were baseball's best battery when "The Big Train" was shooting full speed ahead for the Senators and, as a diversion, the verbose catcher was clutching a ball tossed from the top of the Washington Monument. Ah, those were the days with "Big Barney" burnin' 'em in and Street nabbing the fast ones with the ease of an expert iron worker bucketing a white-hot rivet! Time finally separated this celebrated battery with the usual drift to the minors, each in managerial capacities for a brief spell.

Last Winter, Johnson was appointed manager of the Washington Senators. Old pal Street was toasting his shins before the fireside in Joplin, Mo., thinking perhaps of the golf triumphs of his young fellow-townsmen, Horton Smith, when a telephone message made him manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Now "The Big Train" did wonders with the Senators. They led the American League for a while and were runners-up to the champion Athletics finally. Many were inclined to think that "Big Barney" was "too nice a fellow" to be a good manager where hard-boiled attitudes and actions are often required. But Johnson, soft-pedaling Simon Legree psychology, got the utmost out of his team. Connie Mack or John McGraw could have done no better.

Street performed an even greater managerial feat with the Cards. Of the first 56 games this year, the Red Birds lost 26 by one run. That was discouraging but it did show the Cards were far from push-overs. Finally they began to click in a way that has not been approached in the big leagues since the Boston Braves went from bottom to top, starting in midseason, back in 1914. Sixteen years later, the Joplin ghost of historic Johnsonian battery fame was the directing genius—the Napoleon—of this remarkable pennant effort.

What would you give, you fans, if it were possible to cavendish Johnson and Street when they meet again (with none else apparently present) to talk over the "inside dope" on their 1930 campaigns?

You might be disappointed because, modest always as they are, neither might gab about baseball. Copyright, 1930, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The left field score board showed more zeros than a school boy's report card until the A's went to bat in the ninth inning yesterday.

Mickey Cochrane, who has been engaging Burleigh Grimes in a verbal duel throughout the series, led off for the Athletics in that session.

"Hello, Big Ears," Grimes greeted the Philadelphia catcher. "Better fasten back those shutters or I'll bust 'em for you."

Well, what with one witty saying and another, Grimes neglected to get enough balls over the plate, and Cochrane walked, emitting loud and raucous razzberries in the direction of the pitcher's box.

This brought up Al Simmons, who, as it happened, was shy a safety pin for his flannel knickers, and Grimes had a merry time of it kidding Al, the latter being handicapped by having to bat with practically one hand. This time the laugh was with Burleigh, for Simmons popped weakly to Gelbert.

Then Jimmy Foxx advanced to the plate. Grimes sent the ball over about knee high, while thinking up an appropriate witticism with which to disconcert the A's first baseman.

That gag, whatever it was to have been, is one that never will be sprung, for Jimmy took hold of the ball with all the muscular force of his brawny shoulders, arms and torso, and the crash of ash on horsehide was heard, as far away as Philadelphia. The ball, in fact, started in the general direction of the latter city, soaring through the mist, over the fence and far away. With it went the ball game.

The Athletics were a happy lot when they reached their dressing room. They were somewhat goofy, in fact. They even broke out into college cheers, huddled together, somewhat to this effect:

"They can't beat the A's, they can't beat the A's." After which, with three Japs and a tiger for Mr. McGillicuddy, they scrambled into their plus fours and entrained for home, singing something about dying for dear old Philadelphia.

But for the Cardinals, this is a grim, business-like affair with the long end of world series spoils at stake, if nothing else. There is a difference of $1,928 between the winner's and loser's individual shares. That figure alone is enough to make the veterans on the St. Louis team fighting mad, as it was in 1928 when they were wallowed in four straight games by the New York Yankees.

The Cards of 1930 have averted any such disgrace as overtook their immediate predecessors. After losing the first two games, they fought back to outplay the American League champions and even the present series. And in yesterday's game, there was only the difference of that ninth inning homer of Jimmy Foxx's between the two teams.

The Athletics, however, can say with the old negro preacher, "Bless the Lord for the small difference."

Seeing Big League BASEBALL

By BILLY EVANS
Sports writer, Big League Umpire and General Manager of the Cleveland Indians

Close students of baseball, fans and baseball experts, have often asked me if umpires have any set methods to which they consistently adhere as to the handling of the players. In this connection I might say that few umpires have many things in common. Each one handles the game according to temperament and disposition. Of course all must follow the same set of rules, but in the handling of the same situation, the umpires would differ widely. Any umpire to succeed must be backed to the limit; his authority must be supreme. However, I believe that it is possible to overplay the power that is granted the umpire. It should be used with the greatest of discretion.

Some years ago there was a certain star player in the American league who did not relish batting against Russell Ford, then a past master in using an illegal delivery known as the emery ball. It will be remembered that Ford roughened the ball by means of a piece of emery paper concealed in the palm of his glove, a hole being cut in same. With a rough ball he could make it take all kinds of dizzy dips. In the very first inning of the game I called the star player out on three pitched balls, all of them perfect and at none of which he offered. I knew the player didn't like to bat against Ford. It was league gossip. I also realized that thousands of fans were out to see this player in his battle of wits with the great Ford, then the pitching sensation of the American league.

As I called the third strike, I proceeded to brush off the plate, although it was devoid of dust. I realized I was going to have an argument on my hands and I wanted to have a reason for the delay that I knew was certain to follow. At such times nothing offers a better excuse than the home plate. I sure dusted that platter clean and managed somehow to keep flecking fresh dirt back on it, so there would still be a reason for my continuing the job. In the meantime conversation was passing between us.

"Three terrible strikes."

"I didn't think so."

"Not one of them within six inches of the plate."

"All three cut the heart. If there were ever three perfect strikes in all the world I just called them on you."

"Umpiring like that is what drives people from the ball park."

"Unless you start on your way to the bench mighty quick it is certainly going to drive you out of it."

"I'm going to stick around here just as long as I please. No threats that

SPURRED ON BY RETURN OF CLINT RIEBETH

CALLED UPON SATURDAY TO MEET GREATEST STANFORD FOOTBALL MACHINE

COACH CRISLER CONTINUES HIS PROGRAM OF MOULDING ENTIRE SQUAD TO SHAPE

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 7.—(U.P.)—Spurred on by the return of Clint Riebeth, flashy halfback, to practice, the University of Minnesota football squad dug their cleats into the turf of historic Northrop Field today and settled down for their hardest week's practice.

Less than 10 hours of practice remained to the Gopher squad before they will be called upon Saturday to meet one of the greatest Stanford football machines ever turned out by "Pop" Warner.

Though he realized that chances were slight, Coach Fritz Crisler clung to his announced program of bringing his entire squad along slowly rather than concentrating on any one group of players.

Five complete teams and some odd men continue to gallop up and down Northrop Field daily. The squad is the largest for this period of the year ever to work out under the colors of the Maroon and Gold.

Fundamentals, blocking, tackling, handling the ball and taking out interference were stressed by the Minnesota coaches. The men will be given grueling workouts during the week to build up their stamina for the bitter clash with Stanford.

Johnny MacDougal, 150-pound quarterback, whose running and defensive work was one of the few bright spots in the disastrous Vanderbilt conflict, will be given intensive training in signal calling in order to increase his team management technique.

you make are going to hurry me away. I'm entitled to tell you what I think of you after that terrible exhibition."

"Well, I don't intend to listen to much more of your conversation. If you're still around here when I finish dusting off this plate, you are certainly going to get a ticket to the club house."

"I'll be here."

I realized full well that the player wanted to be put out of the ball game. It was a Saturday afternoon and the crowd numbered about 20,000, a mighty big gathering in those days. I didn't want to chase the star if I could possibly avoid it. After wearing off most of the whisk broom and getting the plate scrupulously clean, I found my friend was still with me. "You're through," I quietly remarked. I had resorted to every possible means to keep him in the game; now to maintain discipline it was necessary that I put him out. As I uttered the fatal words he hurried to the club house without further comment. I realized that I had been the goat of the situation but I had no alternative.

Two Ol' Pals Make Good

By HARDIN BURNLEY

FOR several seasons, Walter Johnson and "Gabby" Street undoubtedly were baseball's best battery when "The Big Train" was shooting full speed ahead for the Senators and, as a diversion, the verbose catcher was clutching a ball tossed from the top of the Washington Monument. Ah, those were the days with "Big Barney" the fast ones with the ease of an expert iron worker bucketing a white-hot rivet! Time finally separated this celebrated battery with the usual drift to the minors, each in managerial capacities for a brief spell.

Last winter, Johnson was appointed manager of the Washington Senators. Old pal Street was tossing his shins before the fireside in Joplin, Mo., thinking perhaps of the golf triumphs of his young fellow-townsmen, Horton Smith, when a telephone message made him manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Now "The Big Train" did wonders with the Senators. They led the American League for a while and were runners-up to the champion Athletics finally. Many were inclined to think that "Big Barney" was "too nice a fellow" to be a good manager where hard-boiled attitudes and actions are often required. But Johnson, soft-peddling Simon Legree psychology, got the utmost out of his team. Connie Mack or John McGraw could have done no better.

Street performed an even greater managerial feat with the Cards. Of the first 56 games this year, the Red Birds lost 26 by one run. That was discouraging but it did show the Cards were far from push-overs. Finally they began to click in a way that has not been approached in the big leagues since the Boston Braves went from bottom to top, starting in midseason, back in 1914. Sixteen years later, the Joplin ghost of historic Johnsonian battery fame was the directing genius—the Napoleon—of this remarkable pennant effort.

What would you give, you fans, if it were possible to eavesdrop on Johnson and Street when they meet again (with none else apparently present) to talk over the "inside dope" on their 1930 campaigns?

You might be disappointed because, modest always as they are, neither might gab about baseball. Copyright, 1930, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The Name in Her Mirror

DORIS GRAHAM had returned to spend the summer at the quiet, cliff-built summer resort where she had been so carefree and happy five years before.

"But isn't it a stupid place to live in for three months?" asked her chum in the office.

"It wouldn't suit you," admitted Doris.

"And that dreadful trip every day?" lamented the other girl.

Doris was not to be discouraged. She wanted to get away from the city, wanted to sleep in the country, wake up in the country, have her Sundays and Saturday afternoons in the open.

And so she had established herself in the plain, old country boarding house that she had lived in when her mother was with her and life looked rosy and merry.

Now, she was tired, a trifle discouraged at the lack of variety in her life. There was a vacancy she could not quite analyze, but she ascribed it to the fact that she could not get accustomed to living without her dear mother.

On her first free Saturday afternoon, she wandered about the old village streets, stopping here and there to linger under a familiar tree, stooping to gather a wayside blossom.

"I'll just go down to the post office to wait for the distribution of the late mail," she said to herself, as she neared the little group of shops of which one was the post office.

It was as she was entering the post office five years ago that she had first seen Archie Olmstead. The thought no longer quickened her breath, sent that forlorn hurt straight to her heart.

What had become of him? Why had she never heard from him?

How many times she had asked herself that question only to find herself unanswered.

She found a letter for her from the girl in the office who, secretly, would have enjoyed being with Doris, but who hesitated to invite herself.

Doris, thrilled at receiving a letter from the hands of the same postmaster who had stood behind the window thumbing the letters five years before, stood beside the scratched and disfigured wall to read it.

As some one pushed against her, she moved. She bumped her head, ever so slightly, against the corner of the glass-faced wall cabinet that held unclaimed letters.

For a moment she stared at the envelopes posted inside. Suddenly, she stared. There was her own name—Doris Graham.

Hastily, she sought the postmaster and told him that there was a letter in the case that was addressed to her. Together, they got it and Doris, fearing, somehow, to read it in the midst of so many eyes as were upon her at this mail hour in the village, put it in her bag.

When she was alone she opened the envelope. It was a letter from Archie. In it he told her this was the third one he had written and if he received no answer this time he would decide that she had amused herself for a summer by making him fall in love with her.

If she wrote one letter over that week end to Archie, she wrote a dozen. None suited her. She could not seem to find words in which to tell him all that had been in her thoughts of him, since they had met. She wondered where he was. Could this address be the right one?

On Monday at the office she tried again, this time on her typewriter. It was a stupid letter. She destroyed it.

It was still light when she arrived in the country these June nights and she decided that she would be able to pen a short note to Archie if she used the post office pen and ink on the old shelf desk where they had written each other so many tender notes in other days. With a piece of paper in her bag, she went to the village and wrote to Archie. As she stood looking at the much-used blotter on the shelf, her handbag open with its mirrored back, a familiar scrawl was reflected in it.

She held the mirror over the blotted name. Yes—it was his name in his handwriting. Her heart thumped madly. He must be here—in this very town—now. The name had been written that day.

Posting the letter she had written, she hurried back to the boarding house.

When the motherly old landlady came forward, she saw that they had met on the walk leading through the arch of maples. She had remembered their early romance. She was gratified at its renewal.

It took the whole evening to explain the strange tricks fate had played them during the years of their separation. But the faith of each of them was unshaken and Doris found herself later comparing the great happiness of her present summer with the shallow, frivolous gaiety of that holiday five years ago.

"And I knew all the time," Doris heard from her chum at the office. "that there must be some good reason for your craving for that stupid summer resort—some other reason than the country air."

DRAMA PRODUCED AT IRONTON HALL

An "Old Fashioned Mother" Presented Under Direction of David Goodnature

"An Old Fashioned Mother," a drama in three acts, was presented last evening at the Ironton village hall at Ironton to a packed house. The play, under the direction of David Goodnature, and with Brainerd talent, was sponsored by Circle No. 2 of the Ironton Presbyterian Ladies' Aid.

The play, which is a parable of a mother's love over the ingratitude and neglect of her children, contained many dramatic scenes. These were interspersed with comedy, making the play one of interest from start to finish. Costumes of about thirty-five years ago were worn by all the players, the cast of characters as follows: Deborah Underhill, a mother in Israel—Mrs. David Goodnature.

Widder Bill Prindle, leader of the choir—Louise Klusman.

Lewizy Leviny Custard, plain sewing and gossip—Mrs. Walter Murphy.

Isabel Simpscoot, the village belle—Mary Hawkins.

Gloriana Perkins, as good as gold—Dorothy Kinney.

John Underhill, the prodigal son—David Goodnature.

Charley Underhill, the older brother—Henry Viken.

Brother Jonah Quackenbush, a white-eyed sepulchre—Joseph Greener.

Jeremiah Gosling "Jerry," a merry heart—Ray Nelson.

Enoch Rone, an outcast and a wanderer—Lester Peterson.

Quintos Todd, the county sheriff—Joseph Greener.

The comedy for the play was very ably provided by Louise Klusman, Mrs. Walter Murphy and Ray Nelson.

In his part, Mr. Nelson carried a watch which was over a hundred years old, having been in the family for that period of time.

In-between act specialties were provided by little Elaine Weisz who gave several dance numbers. She was enthusiastically received and had several recalls. One of her costumes was of yellow, another in a black and white suit with a tall silver hat, and a clown suit. Other numbers were given by Ray Nelson who also received enthusiastic applause from the audience.

Intermission was held at 8:15 p. m. and the play resumed at 8:30 p. m.

COUNCIL PROTESTS RAISE IN MILK

Hall Sees no Reason for Increase, Resolution Calls for Inquiry Here

"It is the sense of this council that we oppose the increase in the price of milk as being not warranted."

Such a statement was included in a resolution passed by the city council last evening protesting the increase of 2 cents a quart in milk here.

The council in the resolution called for an inquiry to learn the reason for the jump.

"It is within the province of this council to take this matter up," Alderman W. J. Hall said as he expressed the opinion that with feed cheapest in the history of the county, labor cheapest and hay plentiful, the price of milk should lower rather than increase.

"Many babies in the city are going to suffer from lack of milk if the present prices continue to exist," Mr. Hall said.

DRAMA PRODUCED AT IRONTON HALL

An "Old Fashioned Mother" Presented Under Direction of David Goodnature

"An Old Fashioned Mother," a drama in three acts, was presented last evening at the Ironton village hall at Ironton to a packed house. The play, under the direction of David Goodnature, and with Brainerd talent, was sponsored by Circle No. 2 of the Ironton Presbyterian Ladies' Aid.

The play, which is a parable of a mother's love over the ingratitude and neglect of her children, contained many dramatic scenes. These were interspersed with comedy, making the play one of interest from start to finish. Costumes of about thirty-five years ago were worn by all the players, the cast of characters as follows:

Deborah Underhill, a mother in Israel—Mrs. David Goodnature.

Widder Bill Prindle, leader of the choir—Louise Klusman.

Lewisy Lewiny Custard, plain sewing and gossip—Mrs. Walter Murphy.

Isabel Simpcott, the village belle—Mary Hawkins.

Gloriana Perkins, as good as gold—Dorothy Kinney.

John Underhill, the prodigal son—David Goodnature.

Charley Underhill, the older brother—Henry Viken.

Brother Jonah Quackenbush, a white sepulchre—Joseph Greener.

Jeremiah Gosling "Jerry," a merry heart—Ray Nelson.

Enoch Rone, an outcast and a wanderer—Lester Peterson.

Quintos Todd, the county sheriff—Joseph Greener.

The comedy for the play was very ably provided by Louise Klusman, Mrs. Walter Murphy and Ray Nelson. In his part, Mr. Nelson carried a watch which was over a hundred years old, having been in the family for that period of time.

In-between act specialties were provided by little Elaine Weisz who gave several dance numbers. She was enthusiastically received and had several recalls. One of her costumes was of yellow, another in a black and white suit with a tall silver hat, and a clown suit. Other numbers were given by Ray Nelson who also received enthusiastic applause from the audience.

COUNCIL PROTESTS RAISE IN MILK

Hall Sees no Reason for Increase, Resolution Calls for Inquiry Here

"It is the sense of this council that we oppose the increase in the price of milk as being not warranted."

Such a statement was included in a resolution passed by the city council last evening protesting the increase of 2 cents a quart in milk here.

The council in the resolution called for an inquiry to learn the reason for the jump.

"It is within the province of this council to take this matter up," Alderman W. J. Hall said as he expressed the opinion that with feed cheapest in the history of the county, labor cheapest and hay plentiful, the price of milk should lower rather than increase.

"Many babies in the city are going to suffer from lack of milk if the present prices continue to exist," Mr. Hall said.

The resolution was adopted on motion of Mr. Hall and Alderman Chris Elvig.

Average "Man" Defined

The average man is neither ignorant nor a high-brow. He isn't perfect morally, yet he isn't wicked. He isn't rich, but he manages to get enough money together to educate his children. He isn't profound in his opinions, but has considerable common sense. The average man is a pretty good sort.—Atchison Globe.

High Quality Product

Clean barns, clean cows, clean milkers, and cooling immediately after separation, all tend to produce a high quality product, but probably most important of all is the care of the utensils which come in contact with the milk and cream. As the dairy utensils are handled on many farms, they are by far the most important source of bacteria. With proper attention their care may require less work than is usually given on farms producing an inferior product.

Eggs Made to Bounce

Eggs are bounced about recklessly at the Empire marketing board's "Parasite Zoo" near Slough, England. Here an egg-bouncing machine, used to detect insect parasites, has been installed. Insect eggs are rolled down a wooden chute and bounced off a tin plate at the bottom. Eggs which have become parasitized have not the bouncing capacity of healthy ones.

The SEA BRIDE

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING CRUISE

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

THE men could not come at the companion stairs, bade him listen. And the malicious gods played into Dan's evil hands, for as they listened, Faith was saying:

"Try to make him like you. But be careful. He doesn't now. If he guessed—"

Brander said something which they could not hear—a single word, and Faith cried:

"You can. You're a man. He can't help admiring you in the end. I—"

She hesitated, said helplessly: "I'm putting myself into your hands—"

Dan had wit to seize his fortune. "There, sir!" he cried out. But there was no need of spur to Noll Wing now. The captain had reached the deck with a single rush. Dan was at his heels. Faith and Brander sprang apart before their eyes, and because the innocent have always the appearance of the guilty there was guilt in every line of these two.

Noll Wing, confronting them, had in that moment the stature of a man, he was erect and strong, his eyes were level and cold. He looked from Faith to Brander.

"Brander, be gone," he said. "Faith come below."

Brander took a step toward Noll. Faith said quickly to him:

"No!"

And she smiled at him as he halted in obedience.

Then she turned to her husband, passed him, went down into the cabin, and Noll, with a last glance at Brander, descended on her heels. Dan facing the fourth mate, grinned triumphantly, but for an instant he saw death in Brander's eyes, so that his mirth was frozen. Then Brander turned away.

Faith went down into the cabin to await her husband. He followed her slowly. He came in and shut the door behind him. The man was controlling himself. Nevertheless, he thrust the door shut with a force that shook the thin partition between the cabins. And he snapped the bolt that held it closed.

Then he turned and looked at Faith. There was a furious strength in his countenance at that moment; but it was like the strength of a maniac. His lips twitched tensely; his eyes moved like the eyes of a man who is dizzy from too much turning on his own heel. They jerked away from Faith, returned to her, jerked away again—all without any movement of Noll's head. And as the man's eyes wavered and wrenched back to her, thus, the pupils contracted and narrowed in an effort to focus upon her.

For the rest, he was flushed, brick-red. His whole face seemed to swell. He was inhuman; there was an apelike and animal fury in the man as he looked at his wife.

Abruptly, he jerked up his hands and pressed them against his face and turned away; it was as if he thrust himself away with this pressure of his hands. He turned his back on her, went to his desk, and unlocked a drawer. Faith knew the drawer; she was not surprised when he drew out of it a revolver.

Bending over the desk, with this weapon in his hand, Noll Wing made sure every chamber was loaded. He paid her no attention. Faith watched him for an instant; then she turned to the bench that ran across the stern and picked up from it a bit of sewing—embroidery. She sat down composedly on the bench, crossed her knees in the comfortable attitude of relaxation which women like to assume. One foot rested on the floor; the other swayed back and forth, as if beating time, a few inches above the floor.

Sitting thus, Faith began to sew. She was outlining the petal of an embroidered flower, and she gave this work her whole attention. She did not look up at Noll.

The man finished his examination of the weapon; he turned it in his hand; he lifted it and leveled it at Faith. Still Faith did not look up; she seemed unconcerned.

"Faith!" Noll said harshly. She looked up then, met his eyes fairly, smiled a little.

"What is it, Noll?"

"I'm going to kill you," he said with stiff lips.

"All right," she said quickly, and bent her head above her sewing once more, disregarding him.

Noll was stupefied. This was no surprise; it was the helplessness which courage inspires in a coward. For Noll was a coward in those last days. His face twisted; his hand was shaking. He stared over the revolver barrel at Faith's brown head.

Her hair was parted in the middle, drawn back about her face. The white line of skin where the hair was parted fascinated him; he could not take his eyes from it. The revolver muzzle loomed without his being conscious of this fact; the weapon hung in his hand.

His eyes were still fixed on Faith's head, on the part in her hair. She wore an old, tortoise comb, stuck down into the hair at the back of her head, its top projecting upward—a singular, old-fashioned little ornament. There was a silver mounting on it; and the light glistened on this silver, and caught Noll's eye, and held it.

Faith continued her quiet sewing. Noll's tense muscles, little by little, relaxed. His fingers, loosed their grip on the revolver butt; it dropped to the floor with a chatter. The sound seemed to rouse Noll; he strode toward Faith.

"By Jupiter!" he cried. "You'll—"

He swung down a hand and gathered the fabric of her work between harsh fingers. Her needle was in the midst of a stitch; it pricked him. He did not feel the tiny wound. He would have snatched the stuff out of her hands. He felt as if it were defending her.

But when his hand swept down between hers and caught the bit of embroidery, Faith looked up at him again, and she caught his eye. That halted him; he stood for an instant motionless, bending, above her, their faces not six inches apart.

Then the man jerked his hand away. He released his grip on the bit of fancy work, but the needle was deep in his finger, so that he pulled it out of the cloth. The thread followed it, when his quick movement drew the thread to full length, the fabric was snatched out of Faith's unresisting hands. It dangled by the thread from the needle that stuck in Noll's finger. He saw it, jerked the needle out with a quick, spasmodic gesture, and flung it to one side. He did not look at it; he was looking, still, at Faith.

"Put that away!" he said hoarsely.

Faith smiled, glanced toward the bit of white upon the floor.

"I'm afraid there's blood on it," she said.

"Blood!" he repeated under his breath.

She folded her hands quietly upon her knee, waiting.

"I want to talk to you," he said. She nodded.

"All right, do."

His wrath boiled through his lips, chokingly.

"You—" he stammered. "You and Brander—"

Her eyes, upon his, hardened. She said nothing, but this hardening of her eyes was like a defiance. He flung his hands above his head.

"By Jupiter, you're shameless!" he choked. "You're shameless—I shameless woman! And him—took him out of a hell-hole, and he takes you! I'll break him in two with my hands!"

A REAL DISCOURAGEMENT

Maid—I am afraid I must leave you, ma'am.

Mistress—But you only came yesterday.

Maid—But I can see you don't trust me.

Mistress—But I gave you the key of the cellar, of my jewel case, of master's desk.

Maid—Yes, ma'am, but none of them fit.

Last Word in the Air

A group of pilots were buzzing about something or another as the flight commander approached, and several times he caught the expression "the last word in airplanes."

"Well," he said, as he reached the group, "what is the last word in airplanes?"

The group chorused: "Jump!"

Dangerous Discrepancy

"A government official is but a servant of the people," said the man with old-fashioned ideas.

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "The trouble is that in so many cases the tips amount to more than the regular wages."—Washington Star.

Shifting the Blame

"That tenor is one of those people who manage to shift the blame whenever anything goes wrong."

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "I observe that he always has to be coaxed to sing."—Washington Star.

THEN HE FOUND OUT

"Was it a case of love at first sight?"

"No, second sight. The first time he met her he didn't know she was an heiress."

Precedences

There's social precedence in crime. The true philosopher believes. Some rogues steal fortunes at a time. And some are merely chicken thieves.

Political Economy

"Of course, you are a student of political economy."

"Of course," answered Senator Sorghum. "I don't recall a time when it seemed so necessary to cut campaign expenses down to bare necessities."—Washington Star.

Love All Gone Then

Mrs. Pennywise—"Too bad your finance has no money. But I suppose it'll be a case of love in a cottage."

Miss Goldilocks—"No, I think not. You see, we're going to board at first and we won't move into our cottage until after the honeymoon."

Obliging

Barber—"If you don't hold your head up how do you expect me to shave you?"

Tired Tom—"Oh, well, if that's the way you feel about it, give me a haircut."

HAMMER-HEAD WON

PROSPERITY WEEK

Prosperity is here and Now. It remains for every American citizen to show the attitude of confidence. The United States is sound. Her people have always been equal to any occasion. There is ample money for any enterprise that is sound and practical.

You can contribute to the prosperity of this nation and this community by investing in securities that will create labor or the sale of materials. Or, better still, buy a lot and build.

We can provide the lot.
